Vote Buying Grows

Clerics Fear Quebec Social System Ruined

(From CP and BUP)

QUEBEC — A wave of "stupidity and immorality" swept Quebec province during the June 20 provincial election campaign, two Laval University professors said in a study published today.

The report of the two clergymen named no political parties but was a sweeping condemnation of election campaign methods.

They said the reason they prepared the paper is that it is "urgent" in Quebec province to start a program of moral and civic education among Roman Catholic residents.

"Work must get under way before demagogues and fascist apprentices begin to lead the masses to a point where any improvement will become impossible," the paper said.

They added that parish priests—who wield wide influence in their areas—took active part in the recent campaign. In one case a cure advised his parishioners to vote for the party in power.

"If you don't, we'll get nothing," he is quoted as having said referring to the provincial government grants.

The exact nature of the document was not immediately known although it was reported to have been circulated among members of the Quebec Roman Catholic clergy. It was not believed to have the status of an official Quebec church document.

NAMES WITHHELD

The names of the authors were not published, presumably at their request.

A sweeping condemnation of Quebec election campaign methods is contained in the study which accuses politicians of:

1. Waving the scarecrow of Communism in the recent campaign.
2. Buying votes, corrupting election officers and using violence.
3. Raising the method of using myths and lies into an electoral system.

"Those who now employ or tolerate such proceedings were not their inventors," said the report. "We must admit that our Catholic province has been familiar for some time with what are called election frauds. They are the monopoly of no one party."

The two Roman Catholic priests, well-known in university and social work circles, wrote in the 4,000-word paper that each Quebec election has become "an occasion to kill the democratic spirit."

Votes are bought, roofs repaired free of charge, hospital bills are paid, and there is a

Marilyn's Diary

Stella Folks!

And now we know. If everything goes right, we will stop thinking about swimming and talking about swimming and start doing something about swimming this Friday.

For myself, it is a wonderful relief to have a swimming date to think about, even though the weather may wash it out and make us wait another little while.

I guess I am just like any other athlete in that there comes a time when you want to do something more than practise; you want to get out and get at the actual game.

Coach Gus has brought my training program along beautifully and I feel in good shape and, above all, anxious to give the Strait a try.

If we run into trouble on Friday while we are swimming, we won't waste ourselves to satisfy our pride. We will come out and try it again. We can be persistent and stubborn and we're not going to let the Strait scare us into making mistakes.

I will really have a couple of things to throw at the Strait, if it wants to get nasty.

I have a package of 250 four-leaf clovers that were presented to me by Tommy Harker, who grows them. There are even some five, six and seven-leaf clovers.

I was exceptionally happy to receive the gift because when I left Toronto, I was unable to find the four-leaf clover that I carried with me on my swims in Lake Ontario and the English Channel.

As another omen of good luck, Gus has been finding money—nickels and dimes on the sidewalk. He claims this is a sign of good things to come. I hope he's right.

Another thing I will have, which will be worth more than good luck charms, is a thought that Mrs. Elice Cavin, the kindly wife of my navigator, left with me the first time I met her.

Mrs. Cavin told me, "I will be praying for you just as hard as Elice will be working for you."

I don't think the Strait has any ammunition like that.

Second Penguin Egg Due to Hatch Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—The second king penguin egg at Stanley Park zoo, shown by a warm water test to have a live chick inside it, was scheduled to hatch today.

If it does, Stanley Park will join the zoos of London and Edinburgh as the only ones having two penguin chicks born in captivity.

Suez Hopes Dimming

Oil Shares Skid at London

(UP, AP, Reuters Dispatches)

LONDON — Hopes for next week's Suez conference dimmed today as Britain prepared "the biggest airlift since the Berlin blockade" to fly crack troops to the Middle East.

The Suez crisis sent oil shares skidding $420,000,000 within a few minutes of the opening of the London stock exchange today. At New York Monday some oil issues dropped $14, but most regained ground today.

Cairo reported Egyptian naval officers have been recalled from Communist training centres to man Soviet-made submarines and warships.

An Egyptian close to President Nasser says Egypt may take the Suez Canal case to the United Nations Security Council before the 24-power conference in London Aug. 16 to internationalize the vital waterway.

Even though Britain earlier ruled out the UN as a forum for the dispute.

If Nasser attends the London parley — his decision still is secret — he probably will demand discussion of the U.S.-controlled Panama Canal and other international waterways.

In this, according to Cairo informants, he may have Russian support.

Other major developments:

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles voiced fears Britain and France may use military force unless Egypt adopts a more conciliatory attitude.

CAIRO — Nasser announced he would hold a "press conference of international importance" next Sunday.

LONDON — Only 10 nations have formally accepted the invitation to the London conference—Australia, Ethiopia, Holland, Italy, Japan, Norway, Pakistan, Portugal, Sweden and Turkey. Unofficial reports say Iran and New Zealand had accepted.

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — Premier Sidney Holland tells parliament New Zealand may send the cruiser Royalist to bolster British naval units in the Middle East. Royalist is now on a shakedown cruise in the Mediterranean area.

LONDON — British Prime Minister Anthony Eden schedules report on the Suez crisis by BBC television Wednesday night.

CAIRO — The semi-official Mideast News Agency says the Arab League political committee meeting scheduled Sunday was expected to take "positive steps" to back up Egyptian actions.

PARIS — The newspaper Combat said Secretary of State for Air Henri Laforest has ordered the recall of reserve airmen and earmarked F-84 and F-86 squadrons for possible use; other reports say the army might remove some of its 400,000 armed forces from Algeria.

SPAN COLLAPSE BLOCKS OFF FRASER CANYON

YALE, B.C. (CP) — The Fraser Canyon was closed indefinitely to road traffic today, RCMP announced, after the collapse of a bridge five miles north of here.

Police said the wooden structure collapsed with a roar moments after a loaded truck passed over it. The structure dropped more than 100 feet into Sawmill Creek.

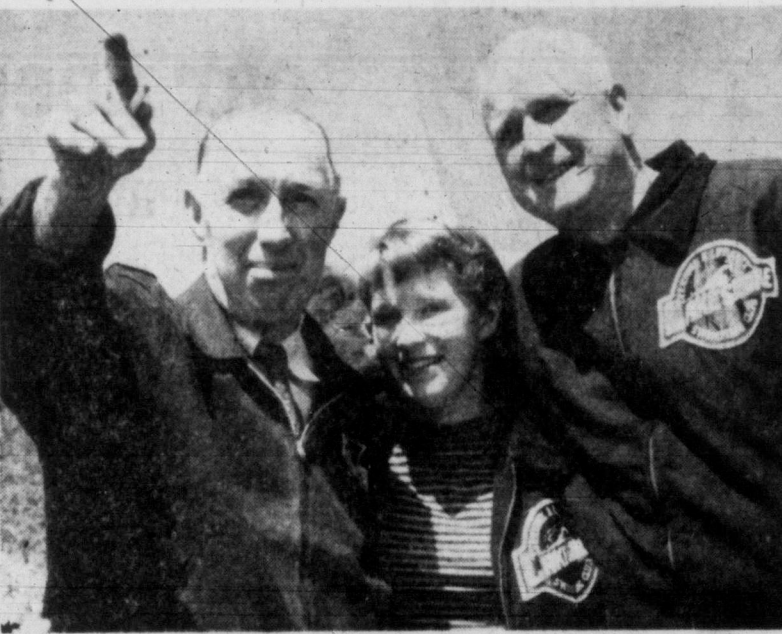

Deputy Highways Minister Evan Jones said here that engineers were being flown to Yale this morning to deal with the collapsed bridge on the Trans-Canada Highway. "I hope to get a report from them soon," he said.

ONE COMING, ONE GOING

Marilyn, Ben Could Meet in Mid-Strait

Marilyn Bell and Ben Laughren may pass each other going in opposite directions Friday in their respective attempts to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Miss Bell plans to leave from Horseshoe Bay on the Victoria side of the strait at 5:45 a.m. in her first attempt.

Ove Witt, Laughren's manager-trainer, said this morning that he may take Laughren over to Port Angeles tonight or Wednesday to try a swim from the American side later this week.

Both Laughren and 26-year-old Billie Benedict were forced to call off swim plans early this morning because of high winds that sprang up Monday night.

Miss Benedict, who had planned to swim at 4 this morning, cancelled her plans indefinitely.

Witt said today: "We have done quite a bit of thinking but, as yet, we do not have a definite plan. We hope to swim from this side if we get a break in the weather Wednesday morning, but if we don't we'll head for Port Angeles and try it from there Thursday or Friday morning."

Swim Attempt Set Two Weeks Early

By DENNY BOYD

Marilyn Bell, Canada's "swimming sweetheart," will begin her effort to conquer Juan de Fuca Strait at 5:45 a.m. Friday.

She will start from Horseshoe Bay on the Beacon Hill waterfront, if weather permits.

The surprise announcement that she will make the attempt two weeks earlier than first planned came from her training camp at Old Charming Inn this morning.

It also firmed up the decision to make the swim from Victoria to Port Angeles, instead of in the other direction in which Bert Thomas last year became the only person so far to defeat the Strait.

The two factors were settled after Capt. Elice Cavin of Island Tug & Barge Co., her navigator, had watched Marilyn perform in the water and made a close study of the tidal pattern of the next two weeks.

The Friday morning start is one of a series of "target times," worked out by Capt. Cavin.

SWIM CHART IN TIMES WEDNESDAY

Wednesday's issue of the Times will carry a copy of the special gridded reference chart of Juan de Fuca Strait to be used in following news reports and CKDA radio broadcasts of the Marilyn Bell attempt and other swims.

Instead of aiming at a specific date and gearing efforts for one try, Capt. Cavin has drawn up a list of favorable starting times, each contingent weather conditions at that time. Friday is the first of these favorable swim dates, according to his calculations.

Hours Changed to Catch Tides

However, should Friday prove unfavorable, either because of adverse weather or unforeseen tidal complications, the swim will be postponed for a 24-hour period to catch the next desired tide. The starting time will be altered each day to conform with changing tide conditions.

Capt. Cavin's schedule, also provides for the possibility that Marilyn may have to abandon her swim because of sudden winds or tide rips. In such a case, the same plan of 24-hour rescheduling will be followed.

Marilyn, who has conquered both Lake Ontario and the English Channel, will be swimming for a guaranteed $20,000 put up by the Toronto Telegram, The Victoria Daily Times and associated interests.

The purse will be boosted to $30,000 for a successful swim. Preliminary plans had called for a late-August or early-September effort.

However, the plans were changed as a result of Miss Bell's quick adaption to the low temperatures of local waters and the recognition by Capt. Cavin of her speed in the water under the difficult conditions that the now-famous 18.3 mile strait can produce to thwart a swimmer.

Coach Gus Ryder says she is at the peak of physical condition and he feels further that her "desire," so necessary in a gruelling swim in icy waters, is perfectly honed.

Actually, it took only one two-hour session of watching Miss Bell in the water to prompt Capt. Cavin to an earlier-than-expected start.

Capt. Cavin had thought earlier the Toronto swimmer would be unwise to attempt the strait until the last week in August, when winds can be expected to abate slightly.

Navigator Astonished at Speed Made

However, the navigator accompanied Miss Bell on a two-hour swim in open water from Horseshoe Bay Saturday and found, to his expressed amazement, that the 130-pound girl had travelled five miles out from Horseshoe Bay in two hours with a two-mile easterly drift on the end of the flood tide.

After the workout, Capt. Cavin consulted his tide charts again in a new frame of thinking and recommended to Ryder that a start be made Friday morning.

The veteran tugboat skipper hopes to get Miss Bell near the centre of the strait in a period of slack water and then to swim her into Ediz Hook on an ebb tide.

Asked about the predicted time of the swim, Capt. Cavin said: "Ten to 12 hours. I hope for a little better than 10, if we get the breaks. And she deserves them."

"Winds are apt to be bad at this time of year," he said.

"and you can't always go by the forecast but generally they don't blow up till fairly well on in the day. Marilyn is so fast that I'm hopeful of getting her across before wind comes."

Marilyn greeted the announcement with an air of calm and relief.

She said, "I want to get going. I feel that I'm ready and I'm glad to have a date early enough to give me a chance for further tries if I don't make it the first time."

Said coach Ryder, "It's a gamble. We may have to wait from day to day until the winds are right. We may have to take Marilyn out part way over and try again later. It's no use having her buck conditions if the Strait acts up rough, and it can, as we've discovered."

If Marilyn is able to go on Friday her effort will be two years plus one day since Florence Chadwick, under Bapco-Times sponsorship, started the modern Strait swimming campaign.

Chief Shot to Death By Quebec Prowlers

ST-E. AGATHE, Que. (CP)—Acting Police Chief Ernest Chalifoux was shot down at dawn today in a flurry of gunfire and died in hospital of wounds believed inflicted by one or two prowlers tampering with cars in this Laurentian town.

Chalifoux, 54, father of five children, left headquarters alone to investigate a call from Grocer J. Cloutier about 4 a.m. Chief Ovila Tasse said.

Cloutier was first quoted as saying he saw two men prowling around autos but later reported he was definite about only one. He said Chalifoux was met by "at least six shots," which he said was fatal. It is Chalifoux died in hospital after managing to drive his radio car back to headquarters. Then he slumped down in the front seat.

Provincial police took over the search for the slayers. "There are few details yet," Chief Tasse said. "But we discovered a number of cars which had been tampered with near where we believe the captain was shot." St. Agathe is about 60 miles northwest of Montreal.

A provincial police medical officer left for the scene to conduct an autopsy.

Road blocks were thrown up by provincial police in the area which is swarming with tourists at this time of year. It is a popular ski resort in the winter after managing to drive his

Moving Performance

Members of a Canadian Legion branch have designed and built a portable outdoor stage and donated it to a Veterans' hospital. Mounted on a trailer, it can be assembled in a few minutes into a 20' x 27' stage and moved to any part of the hospital grounds.

Light, easy-to-handle aluminum was the Legion members' obvious choice of material. And in case of sudden thunderstorms, it would be a simple matter to roll the performers, stage and all, under the nearest shelter. A typical example of how aluminum often provides not just one but several advantages on a single job.

"parade" of gifts such as refrigerators and television sets. "There is reason to believe that laymen are not alone in submitting to the influence of money or goods. Donations to welfare, parish or religious associations can sometimes touch the heart of ecclesiastics as well."

The two priests said the situation in Quebec Province has reached an "acute stage" and no "lucid Catholic" can remain "indifferent."

They said that clergymen accustomed to preaching on Sundays against the wearing of shorts in public probably would be shocked by the statements set down.

"But Christian morality, which sets charity, truth and justice as the cornerstones of social life, and finds lies, perversion of human conscience and systematic corruption a cause of scandal, cannot stand unmoved in the face of such an obvious array of facts."

LIES USED
The use of lies on a large scale, through modern publicity mediums, often leads the masses to accept them as truths, they said.

"This method is revealed as a grave danger when Catholics accept it as legitimate."

The document says that "investigators"—not further identified but are presumably members of the clergy—now are analyzing the result of the polls where religious orders are located.

A preliminary survey has shown, the report said, that in many cases members of religious order voted as a block for one party.

"Respect for the electoral system requires that some solution be found to this problem," said the priests.

SOLUTION
"To us the conclusion seems obvious: An electoral period such as the one just completed shows itself a terrible instrument of demoralization and de-

Christianization. What makes a Christian country is not primarily the number of churches, the pious statements of politicians, the apparent temporal and political influence of the church, or 'good relations' between church and state. It is primarily the respect for truth, belief in justice, integrity of conscience, and respect for freedom."

"Present electoral practices are a frontal attack on all these values. The danger is even greater in that much evidence shows that the conscience of the faithful and even that of members of the religious orders no longer finds cause to be shocked by such corruption."

"It is urgent to begin a patient work of moral and civil education of our Catholics," the study report continued. "We are obliged to admit that in this field our English-speaking compatriots provide the example. Moreover, it is our political morality that shocks them. The work is needed, before demagogues and apprentice-fascists so stupefy the masses that all efforts or reawakening become impossible."

Major Labor Bills Get Fast Handling

(From Times News Services)

Government legislation affecting labor is getting fast handling in the closing days of the parliamentary session with the compliance of the opposition parties.

The administration's two major labor bills of the long session zipped past several stages of passage Monday, with the only dissenting voice coming from a Liberal who didn't vote against the measure he opposed.

The day's score on Labor Minister Gregg's legislation:

Can Estes Meet Adlai's Specifications?

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS, Chicago (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson has laid down qualifications which apparently would disqualify Sen. Estes Kefauver for second place on the Democratic ticket, Stevenson campaign advisers said today.

They said that Stevenson, of course, would like to be nominated for the presidency with a running mate who would strengthen the national ticket—as Kefauver might do with some segments of voters.

But Stevenson is said to believe it is of great importance that a vice-presidential nominee be an effective agent for a White House legislative program. As a lone wolf member of the Senate, Kefauver would have limited influence in that direction.

Stevenson heads into the Democratic national convention, which opens here next Monday, far in front in his race for the presidential nomination. His campaign organization jacked its estimate of his first-ballot vote today to 630, only 57½ short of the majority he needs to win the nomination for a repeat campaign against President Eisenhower.

At this reading, it appears that only an unexpected trap in drafting the civil rights plank of the Democratic platform could upset Stevenson.

Gov. Averell Harriman, who is expected to fight for a tougher plank than Stevenson's supporters, is the 1952 nominee's only major challenger now.

F. Joseph Donohue, who managed the Kefauver campaign before the withdrawal, sounded the drum Monday for a Stevenson-Kefauver ticket. He told a news conference that the Tennessee senator alone could "help the Democratic slate beat President Eisenhower."

However, Stevenson's reported qualifications for a running mate have generated a belief among Democrats that Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.) are the chief contenders. Either would find it easier than Kefauver to work in harness with the Democratic congressional leadership.

EISENHOWER REJECTS BULGANIN'S ARMS PLAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower in effect today turned down Soviet Premier Bulganin's proposal that the West match Russia's announced move reducing the size of its armed forces by 1,200,000 men.

In a letter replying to one Eisenhower received from Bulganin June 6, the President also urged anew that Russia agree to Eisenhower's earlier proposal to freeze production of atomic weapons.

The President also sounded a new appeal for the Russians to reconsider their rejection of his "open skies" aerial reconnaissance proposal.

Eisenhower called on Bulganin to "do more to realize the hopes which were born at our meeting at Geneva" a year ago.

Saanich Council Adopts By-Law To Rezone for Radio-TV Site

Third and final reading of a by-law to re-zone 6.2 acres of Saanich property for a radio-TV commercial broadcasting site was given by council Monday.

Unanimous approval of the plan submitted by CHEK-TV for construction of a transmitter on property bounded by Tattersall, Queensbury and Epsom was based on a lack of "concrete evidence" that property values would suffer through erection of broadcasting equipment.

Council last week refused to accept a 150-name petition objecting to re-zoning. It arrived late in the afternoon prior to a public hearing on the re-zoning application when council's decision was made.

NO TIME TO CHECK
Normal procedure is to check names on petitions to ensure that signatories are all property owners. There was no time to do this prior to the meeting last week, officials said.

Majority of the 45 who attended the hearing were felt to be more concerned about interference with TV reception on other channels than with property devaluation, the only consideration council was empowered to give the application.

Members of council claim that those who objected to the application on grounds it would result in lower property values were unable to give substantial argument.

Much weight was carried by the recommendation to re-zone offered by the town planning commission, Reeve Arthur Ash said. He objected to the suggestion council's decision was based on expected tax revenue from the developed property.

The reeve said also he learned many persons who petitioned against re-zoning did so on being told a TV transmitter in that area would obscure all other TV reception in Saanich.

"Electronics engineers have already assured us that no such thing could happen."
Possibility that channel 5 may be affected is agreed upon by engineers, but they say measures may be taken to filter reception if, in some cases, interference occurs.

"It was not up to us to decide whether channel 5 would be cut off or not," the reeve said. "That is up to the department of transport."

Marathon at Ottawa

EVERY CITIZEN WILL MAKE his own assessment of Parliament's success and failure as it swelters toward prorogation after the longest session on record. But one thing at least is clear—the new rules of procedure have failed completely in their main purpose, which was to reduce the length of the session by reducing the length of the members' speeches.

A hopeful experiment begun early this year has proved a bitter disappointment. The rules of brevity melt under Ottawa's summer sun. Speeches may be limited in theory but members find ways of talking on and on.

It should be remembered, however, that this has not been a normal session or any sound test of the new rules. It has been a session deliberately devoted to delay, filibuster and wrangle. The Opposition made up its mind at the beginning that it could damage the Government if it could keep the session going long enough, tire out the Cabinet, irritate Mr. Howe's famous temper and spread its own views in the papers every day.

The Government has no right to complain on that score. The Opposition has every right to use tactics of obstruction to embarrass the Government and, if possible, destroy it. And the electorate has the right to decide after watching this performance, which party should enjoy its confidence.

When an Opposition is determined to obstruct it can find easy ways around the rules. The majority cannot compel the minority to save time. But under normal conditions, when no election is in sight, the new rules may prove quite useful. It would be folly to abandon them and remove the time limitation on individual speeches.

Something more than rules will be required if the sessional business is to be completed in reasonable time every year and the tired members of Parliament allowed to get home for a summer vacation.

In Laurier's days, and even in the early days of Mackenzie King, the business of the nation was so simple that Parliament could usually deal with it in a few months. Being a member of Parliament then was a part-time job. Now Parliament needs most of the year for business infinitely complex and being a member is a full-time job, most of it performed in Ottawa, the remainder among the people at home.

Under these conditions the Government should abandon the hopeful fiction that Parliament can meet early in the year and adjourn by midsummer. Recent sessions have shown that this old schedule is quite impossible today. We shall have to adopt the British practice under which Parliament sits throughout the year, with suitable holidays from time to time.

If our Parliament met regularly in autumn, took a vacation of some weeks at Christmas and another break at Easter it could be out of Ottawa by July. Its members would then enjoy not only a well deserved holiday in the hot months but the chance to keep in touch with their constituents and the currents of public opinion, from which Ottawa seems to be growing more and more remote.

Pushing a Neutral Westward

WHETHER RED CHINA'S intrusion into Burma marks the prelude to major invasion either of that country or Thailand is not yet apparent.

It could, conceivably, represent a show of force by Communism against a Burmese administration which has acted firmly to check supporters of Moscow and Peiping within its own borders and it might be a response from Red China to a subtle but important shift in Burma's neutrality.

Mr. Saville R. Davis, American news editor of The Christian Science Monitor, writing from Rangoon last week, presents an interesting opinion on this development.

"Burma's position," he suggests, "technically in the middle, has now arrived at a point where it is intelligently neutral in favor of Western concepts of political democracy."

"If Moscow and Peking develop their economic grip to the point where they can and do use it to squeeze Burma for political ends unduly, then Burma will react against this pressure with a vigor now unsuspected in much of the West."

To this Mr. Davis adds the comment that if his assessment is correct, "this means that Moscow and Peking would be compelled to use open and forcible aggression in the presently improbable event that they were determined to bring Burma's present government to heel."

This week's developments suggest that such a possibility is not so improbable as Mr. Davis thought.

"Burma," he adds, "would be helpless before major force. But that is another problem. In that event the whole situation in Asia would be transformed. If major force were threatened, there are members of the leading group here (Rangoon) who say that . . . Burma would then welcome the presence of the strategic power of the United States in the Asian theatre as a deterrent."

"No premature judgments will be formed on that point, but it is reasonable to assume that aggression by Red China will have a profound influence on Asiatic neutrals. Their shift toward the West would seem the automatic reflex action. A gesture of that type by Burma, whose independent spirit has been developing rapidly in recent years—and whose action will be watched closely by other neutrals—could be a big asset to the cause of freedom."

Advice on Water Safety

MR. GUS RYDER, ONE OF THE world's best known swimming coaches, has expressed his views on the need for safety measures at Victoria's swimming resorts.

He would, he says, ban floating toys, kayaks and rubber tubes which non-swimmers or poor swimmers can use to get beyond their depth. And he would increase the number of attendants at beaches used by large crowds.

Mr. Ryder's words should be taken to heart by civic and municipal officials under whose jurisdictions the swimming resorts come. He is echoing the opinion of everyone when he asks "What is a dollar or two against the life of a child?"

Action has already been taken to provide some safety measures and lifeguard service at certain locations. Perhaps the municipalities of Greater Victoria should ask themselves if they are doing enough in this respect.

Beyond that, his words should bring home to the parents of smaller children their own responsibility. Nothing can free them of the need to keep an eye constantly on their youngsters in the water.

Preparing Their Predictions

THE MONUMENTAL REPORT of the Gordon commission on Canada's economic future is apparently under way and is expected to be placed in the Federal Government's hands before the end of this year.

It is a task of tremendous scope to study the economy of a country as large and rapidly developing as Canada, and to predict from the evidence what will be the probable course of our growth over the next quarter century.

The report will deal not only with industrial, agricultural and commercial development, but with population, trends from rural to urban living, immigration, and every facet of the national life that contributes to our economic welfare. On the basis of the commission's findings, the Federal Government—as well as business and industry—will be able to draw up expenditure programs over the next 25 years.

The Gordon report will be to Canada's economy what the famous Massey report was to the nation's cultural life.

Already the broad outlines are becoming apparent. As was to be expected, the commission predicts a population of about 25 millions by 1980, with a consequent expansion of industry—although agriculture will move more slowly than other forms—and a higher standard of living.

It may not have required three months of commission sittings from coast to coast to reach these conclusions. But wide information is needed to go into more detailed prognostications, and this Mr. Gordon and his colleagues now have at hand.

The report when completed may play a large part in the next federal election. So comprehensive a document could well produce a sweeping new Government platform.

The Desert and the Tomb

RECENTLY, in mentioning the splendid days of August, I ventured a few words of sympathy for the holiday bachelors who live in haunted city houses while their families are reveling in the country. This remark has produced a universal chorus of approval from the gentlemen concerned. At least three of them have rung me up on the telephone (long distance, collect) to say that at last this column has contained a little grain of sense.

Such an overwhelming vote of confidence from the public is indeed gratifying, but I am concerned here only with the tragedy of a distinguished business man who was not content to telephone me collect. He staggered all the way to my camp, on a rainy day, to tell me the moving tale of his summer exile.

No doubt it is typical and provides a social document of importance. I set the facts down without comment or embellishment as a moving tribute to the male sex, for which no one has a good word to say.

WELL, this man—I disguise his name in deference to his family and call him merely Mr. Humble, a leading city merchant—admitted to me that he was secretly delighted when his family deserted him and set off on a vacation. For a couple of weeks, he thought, a merciful stillness would descend upon his home. He would have time for silence, thought and the blessings of solitude.

Though a devoted family man, Mr. Humble felt that one could have too much of a good thing. Fifty weeks of the year provided all the domestic company he required. Two weeks would be his own.

So he entered his empty house, on the first evening of liberty, with the high anticipation of Robinson Crusoe setting foot on his island. But like poor Crusoe he was quickly disillusioned.

BY the second night of liberty the condition of Mr. Humble had become too harrowing to be told in detail here. In decent respect for his family's feelings, I note only that Mr. Humble, by his own account, had reached what he called a point of desperation. Throughout the preceding 50 weeks he had looked forward to the chance to be alone and think, but now that he had the chance there was nothing to think about. There was only a hideous silence echoing like thunder through that empty house.

According to the North American legend, propagated by the stage and the movies, a man in these circumstances invariably introduces a lady, not his wife, into his home and thus provides the playwright with the necessary materials of comedy or tragedy.

Wishing Her Luck

The Duchess of Windsor shouldn't worry too much about the anonymous flood of insulting letters received, and probably written under instruction to impress on the minds of simple people "the sin" of legalized divorce.

The lady's marriage to the King was, in a sense, a triumph for legalized divorce. There's the rub.

Of other types of anonymous letters, venomous and inspired by jealousy because Wally Simpson went fishing for a King and caught him, I don't think there would be many.

If done purposely, hers was no inconsiderable feat and one can't help but admire it, and possibly it was unique in history.

Anyway, purposely or not here's wishing the lady good luck.

Evolution

The story of Evolution is now accepted by all reasonable human beings to whom it has been properly demonstrated.

Evolution, or more strictly organic evolution, is an explanation of the characteristics, the diversity and distribution of the various forms of life as the outcome of a natural process of descent with modifications. The term is usually understood to imply that all living organisms are related to each other and have arisen from a uniform and simple ancestry by a long sequence of divergencies, differentiations and complication of descendant lines from that ancestry.

Man as head of the primates is certainly included in the story. He has fought his way up, in the universal struggle for existence, but there is no guarantee whatever that he will be successful in retaining his present dominant position. Eminent scientists have told us that some other form of life may inherit this earth, perhaps insects. The hydrogen and atomic bomb may well hasten human destruction.

No; Evolution is not described in the Bible, or the Talmud, or the Koran or any other literature of 2000 years ago. These books were all written by human beings who, of course, had not the slightest inkling or knowledge of the story of evolution. They quite naturally imagined that this earth was the centre of the universe, with the stars and moon hung in the sky for man's especial benefit. Their anthropomorphic god, who was just a "superman," was readily accessible for the direction of human affairs and he would intervene in mundane matters to see that his chosen people were victorious in their never ending battles with their neighbors.

It has been well said that the obscurantism of St. Augustine fixed the matrix of human thought for a thousand years. "Whatever knowledge man has acquired outside Holy Writ, if it be harmful it is there condemned; if it be wholesome it is there contained."

Is man to turn back the clock by two thousand years? Is all human free thought to be forbidden, all speculation and research into the earth's and human origins? It has been said the Deity is eternal. It is quite as easy to say the Universe is eternal, easier, for we have ample proof of its existence every day. 'RATIONALIST'

Suez and Nile Dry

I suppose the whole world would stand aghast, awed and bewildered, if the Suez Canal was suddenly and utterly destroyed, and at the same time the Nile River was absolutely dried up so that men would walk over it dry-shod.

Seems absurd, does it not? And yet the Bible stated that "Jerusalem should be trodden down of the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled." St. Luke xxi:24, and this was duly fulfilled when Gen. Allenby marched in on Dec. 9, 1917. The beginning of a New Era!

So don't be surprised, but be prepared for the Suez Canal and the Nile River prophecy will come to pass in the near future, see Isa xi:15.

Knot in the Lion's Tail

When the last of the British fighting units left Suez in April and the final departure of administrative details took place in June the editor of the London Daily Mail commented—"The army is leaving by the will of the British Government and not because it has been thrown out. This is the end of an assignment and not a retreat 'without the sound of martial note, with banners furled' . . . Yet the manner of the evacuation will be such as to give exactly that impression . . . It will be hailed as another victory over 'the Colonialist exploiters'. The same old lies; the same sort of mud thrown at the fair name of our country. We almost deserve it because we take so little trouble to defend our own reputation."

And when the Rt. Hon. Paul Williams, M.P., asked in the House of Commons why it was that the British Government continued regular payments of 20 million pounds to Egypt, despite the continuance of anti-British propaganda, it was explained that these payments were a release of sterling balances due to the Egyptian Government for services rendered during World War II. This brought the following ironic editorial protest—

"We owe them this money because we saved Egypt from Hitler and Mussolini. Cairo did not hear a shot fired in anger because British soldiers died in the Western Desert to prevent it. In a sane world the Egyptians would be in our debt, not we in theirs."

And now waxing bolder, Egypt encouraged by Britain's lam-like dumbness and Russia's urging, has tied another knot in the lion's tail by her high-handed piracy in taking over the Suez Canal. Has the lion's humiliation reached its limit?

FROM MOLINE, ILLINOIS

By STEWART ALSOP

THE American voter is a remarkably hospitable and unassuming fellow, who is very likely to ask the inquisitive stranger right into his living room. But he is also a mysterious fellow. Is it possible to tell, from the way people talk to a stranger, how they really feel about politics, and how they are going to vote?

And why do they feel as they do? What is it that determines their reactions to issues, their mental image of a candidate?

These questions are prompted by a just-completed pulse-taking expedition with the able public opinion expert, Louis Harris, through two hard-hit Iowa farm counties, ending up in this Illinois industrial town.

Throughout the expedition, the connection between politics and the pocketbook has been evident. Many farmers are in real trouble. Because they are in trouble, they are not buying the agricultural machinery which is Moline's chief product, and there is serious unemployment here—so serious that, on the main side streets of Moline, talking to men with worried faces, you sometimes get a sudden, acrid whiff of evil days gone by.

Both among the worried farmers and the worried city workers, there has been a real erosion of President Eisenhower's popularity.

Farmer's View
But the pocketbook is clearly not the main reason why people feel as they do, not by a long chalk. Take, for example, the richest farmer we interviewed.

He owns 860 fertile acres, and he has made enough money to tear down the old farm house and build a hideous but comfortable suburban-type "ranch house." He is still, he said, doing very well by himself.

By all the rules, he should be the solidest of Republicans. But he is not. He sat with his bare feet on an overstuffed hassock, and said that he had voted for Eisenhower in 1952, but was going to vote Democratic this time. The President was a sick man, he said, and he didn't understand farm problems.

Down the road a spell there was a ragged tenant farmer on eighty acres, who ascribed all his numerous troubles to the unions, and was a hard core, unshakable Republican.

Peace Important
You find people who consciously intend to vote against what they consider their own best economic interests. There was the brawny young man in the bean field, who had voted for Stevenson in 1952, but said he would vote for Eisenhower this year. "Eisenhower has taken the farmer into consideration hardly at all, but he's kept the world at peace, and that's the big thing."

Most people are self-conscious to the point of shyness about their lack of political information. Again and again you hear the same phrase—"Well, I don't know too much about politics"—and it's often an understatement.

Yet almost everyone seems to have a definite mental image of the leading candidates (except for Averell Harriman, who is almost totally unknown in these parts).

The image of Eisenhower as a good, kind, and strong man is dimmer on the farms than elsewhere, and dim to the vanishing point on the workers' streets in Moline. But it is still there, and remains the Republicans' great central asset.

The image of Richard Nixon is strange. There was one bitter, young-old man on the back stoop of a handsome brick house, who is a sort of unconscious Marxist. He had no use for Eisenhower, Stevenson, or either of the parties—"They are run for the capitalists, not for us little people." But, he allowed, he "thought a lot of that Nixon."

But he was an exception. More typical was an elderly man who remarked oddly, "Nixon's a very good man, but I just don't care for him." Yet we found no one who intended to vote against Eisenhower simply because the voter disliked Nixon.

City Slicker

Estes Kefauver has made a remarkably strong impression on the Iowa farmer, as an honest man who understands "the farmers' problems. But the most striking phenomenon is the mental image of Adlai Stevenson held on the farms (but not here in Moline, where Stevenson is much admired). On the farms, Stevenson is regarded as the classic city slicker.

Again and again, farmers talk with a sneer of Stevenson's "witticisms." But one sensed that the Stevensonian jokes were only a symbol of something else, something about the man they did not understand, something that made them uncomfortable.

Whatever the something is, Stevenson must at all cost overcome it, if he is to have a ghost of a chance of exploiting the political opportunity which unquestionably exists in the farm belt.

Such, at least, are some of the impressions which two long days where the tall corn grows have left with this reporter. Perhaps they are wrong. But one impression is surely right—that the American voters are nice, outspoken people, but very hard indeed to figure out. (Copy, 1956, N.Y. Herald Tribune Inc.)

Six-Day Week

From Saturday Night

Earlier this year, Calgary repealed a by-law that provided for early closing of retail stores. Shopkeepers were given back the right to choose their own hours of doing business. Many of them didn't want such freedom and predicted that it would bring chaos to Calgary's retail world.

Nothing of the sort happened, of course. The Calgary Herald recently commented: "The repeal of the retail-store by-law, has, demonstrably, benefited infinitely more people than it hurt, if it hurt anybody, really."

What has happened in Calgary should happen in every community where enough petty retailers have ranged up to get restrictive regulations passed by their municipal governments. There are provincial laws governing wages and conditions of work, and within their framework the seller should be free to do as efficient and enterprising a job as he can for his customers.

PERFECT FORM, WHITEY

IT'S MY VIEW

THE WEEKEND IN REVIEW, or who dares to make book now on the upcoming Intercity Lacrosse League series between Victoria Shamrocks and Vancouver Pilseners?

The Rocks came bombing back last night to flash the form that made them Mann Cup champions last year; the Pils looked very ordinary indeed.

It's still only a long-shot hope that the Irish can get into second place, because too much went before that which has labelled them as a third-place club during the regular season.

And no-one can deny the Nanaimo Timbermen and Pilseners their rightful dues.

But off last night's stand, the Irish seem ready to rekindle the flame that marked their championship march of last season.

Offensively the team is capable; defensively in goalie Geordy Johnston and substitute Don Hamilton they have as much as they need—but the big query now concerns the "stop department," before that job becomes Johnston's worry.

That is where the club has been lacking. The checking department must buckle down to the task. Two-on-one breaks have been a common fault this season, and therein lies the problem that coach Whitey Severson faces, and which the Rocks must master.

From this corner, it's 50-50 and take your pick between the Irish and Pils, because the Irish certainly have not yet realized their true potential (they've never had their playoff club on the floor yet) while the Pils, though a solid unit, may have passed their peak.

Up in Nanaimo the toast of the town is Bobby Allan, the new ICLL scoring champion and record holder. And all thanks to Allan. He's a nifty and full value for his amazing mark.

Things are about the same in the majors. The Yanks lost six straight, but still lead by eight games, thanks to the co-operation of the Cleveland Indians. The tribe just can't win when it should. In the National, the Braves pound along in first place, thanks to a pitching staff that refuses to yield to pressure.

And yet another title to Susan Butt, the teen-ager with a promising net future. . . . Bill Peersall captured the all-gauge skeet championship Sunday and at least equalled a world record doing it. You can't "not miss" a shot and not equal what no-one else can better, now can you? And Bill had a perfect score.

Science is playing its part as Milwaukee Braves lead the National League pennant battle. . . . The Braves use oxygen to restore the players' stamina on hot days. . . . Most like the appointment and figure Colin Kilburn will do better than all right in new position as Cougar coach; but there's one fan who doesn't approve. . . . the sweet feminine voice commented: "If that's true (Kilburn being coach) I'm going to spend the money I've saved for seasons' tickets, on a bottle (no address or phone number given). . . .

On the subject of baseball and Sunday's postponement of the Farmers' games, let's get it right: The suggestion that the Farmers couldn't play because the cost of cleaning the park was too high is a trifle out of line. . . . Farmers have received kind consideration from Parks Board officials this year and the charge that would have been theirs for a Sunday cleaning job was only $40 or half the actual cost. . . . Certainly the Parks Board can't pay the whole shot of overtime, etc., such extra payment being necessary on Sunday. Frankly we think the Parks Board has been more than generous to athletics this year, and commend that civic department for it. . . .

BABE'S OPERATION HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — A "short circuit" operation to remedy Babe Zaharias' blocked large intestine Monday night was highly successful, doctors at John Sealy Hospital said.

It was the second operation in the last three weeks for the famous woman athlete, who is fighting a recurrence of cancer.

Hospital officials said the three-hour operation re-routed the intestine around the obstruction.

George Zaharias, Babe's husband, said she had been growing progressively uncomfortable and readily consented to the operation.

Intercity Playoff Dates Set

Best-of-Five Semis to Commence Aug. 20

Intercity Lacrosse playoff dates have been set, and approved.

Vancouver Pilseners and Victoria Shamrocks will open their best-of-five semifinal series on the home floor of the second place club Aug. 20.

The series will then alternate with the second game billed for Aug. 22 and the third Aug. 24.

If other games are necessary they will be played Aug. 25 and Aug. 28.

If the semifinal series goes the limit, the finals will open in Nanaimo on Sept. 30 and will be decided in the best-of-seven games. Other dates are Sept. 1, 3, 5, 7, 10, 12.

However, if the semifinals are decided in less than five games, then the final series will be moved ahead.

Mann Cup playdowns open at the home of the eastern champions on Sept. 16, and will conclude, if the series goes the limit of seven games, Sept. 30.

Intercity lacrosse commissioner Ed Popham has confirmed that if Victoria Shamrocks and Vancouver Pilseners finish in a point tie, and with the same number of victories, the team with the most "goals for" will take second place. If they are tied in "goals for," then the team with the least "goals against" will take the runner-up position.

Lead-off batter Ed Lou walked, went to second as Jeff Worrall beat out a fielder's choice, and came home when Bernie Sam singled.

Vorrall, who had gone to third on Sam's single, came home on a double by Ted Langlois after Bernie Sam and Bobby Lowe had been retired. Langlois, who advanced to third on Walter Derr's fielder's choice, came home on a wild pitch.

ARCHIE IN FORM

Except for the disastrous first, Archie Sluggitt also pitched well for Arrows, doing out only six hits as he went the route for the Furmen.

Next game of the best-of-five series is scheduled for tonight at 6:45 at Central Park.

When Vancouver Mounties meet Portland Beavers in the Coast Baseball League exhibition game here on Monday, local fans will see one of the real all-star veterans of the league.

He is Eddie Basinski, now a utility infielder with the Beavers.

Basinski, regarded as one of the best glove men in the minors, was an all-star performer at second base for four straight years, 1949 through 1952.

The exhibition game, which will start at 7:30 p.m., is in aid of the Cancer Fund.

The Navy band will be in attendance from 6:45 until 7:25, at which time pre-game festivities will take place.

Tickets for the game are now on sale at the Cougar Ticket Bureau, Fort Street, Hudson's Bay Co., and Wagner's News Stand. Prices are $2, $1.50 and $1.

Frankly we think the Parks Board has been more than generous to athletics this year, and commend that civic department for it. . . .

On the subject of baseball and Sunday's postponement of the Farmers' games, let's get it right: The suggestion that the Farmers couldn't play because the cost of cleaning the park was too high is a trifle out of line. . . . Farmers have received kind consideration from Parks Board officials this year and the charge that would have been theirs for a Sunday cleaning job was only $40 or half the actual cost. . . . Certainly the Parks Board can't pay the whole shot of overtime, etc., such extra payment being necessary on Sunday. Frankly we think the Parks Board has been more than generous to athletics this year, and commend that civic department for it. . . .

Irish Edge Pilseners; Retain Second-Place Hopé

Shamrocks 7, Pilseners 6

By BILL WALKER

If second place can be had in the Intercity Lacrosse League race, Victoria Shamrocks seem ready to battle for it.

Any opinions to the contrary certainly should have been dispelled Monday night.

The Irish gave it their best, after the intermission, before a slim off-night crowd, to edge Vancouver Pilseners 7-6 to keep that mirage of second place in view.

And really, it is a mirage; for to overtake the Pilseners, whom they now trail by four points, each team having three games remaining, the Rocks must win all their games while the Pils lose at least two. Three Irish victories and one Pilsener triumph would leave the clubs tied. If that occurred, the team with the most goals would take second place, and the Irish have the edge in that department at present.

Pils play New Westminster at home tonight, host Nanaimo next Tuesday and have a final season date with the Irish on Aug. 17 at Vancouver. Rocks travel to Nanaimo Saturday, host New Westminster here Aug. 15 and then have what could be the crucial date with the Pils in Vancouver, a week Friday.

And the crucial aspect of the situation is that the second-place club get the odd game in the best-of-five semifinals.

For if there was any reason for particular emphasis to be placed on the one phase of the Irish game that was superior to the past, it was the defence—the overall defence.

And that made goalie Geordy Johnston's task that much simpler. Geordy, as he can do, took care of the rest.

As for the second place battle, that resumes for the Rocks at Nanaimo Saturday night and the Irish may face a six-point deficit all over again as Pils meet the Belles tonight.

Shamrock coach Whitey Severson obviously was pleased: "They fought back good," he said of his charges; "and our defence was better."

Actually Whitey was understating the facts.

44 WINNERS TO GO

Longden Nears Richards' Mark

(From AP and UP Dispatches)
DEL MAR, Calif.—Veteran jockey Johnny Longden today boasted a total of 4,826 wins in his riding career after bringing home five winners in a single day's racing program at the Del Mar race track.

Longden needs only 44 more winners to equal the all-time high of 4,870 victories set by Sir Gordon Richards.

The star jockey Monday collected the string of wins, including In Reserve in the featured Hope Guild Handicap.

His other winners were Ally Abbey, Vapor Therapy, Tiger Lad and Jay Cee Mac.

In Reserve, the four-year-old daughter of Noor and Abeyance, ran the six furlongs in 1:09 2/5 and returned $7.10.

Yanks Boost AL Leadership To Eight Games

By United Press
Casey Stengel, a wily old dodger who generally frowns on gambling, came up with a long shot—exactly as his Yankee players predicted he would—to halt both a six-game losing streak and talk that the Bronx Bombers might be starting to buckle.

"Leave it to old Casey," said the Yankees, even while they were in the throes of their homer in the sixth, Tom Morawson. "He'll think of something when he does, we'll be okay again."

Stengel did think of something, rookie pitcher Ralph Terry fresh up from Denver of the American Association, and when all the dust cleared, the youngster picked up his first major league victory with a 4-3 decision over the red-hot Red Sox Monday night and the Yankees increased their lead to eight games in the American League race.

NEEDED HELP, GOT IT

Terry, a 20-year-old right-hander brought up from the minors only last Friday, blanked Boston for the first four innings as the Yanks got to Tom Brewer for three runs in the fourth. Jerry Coleman's two-run single highlighted the frame. New York then scored what proved to be the deciding run in the fifth on Hank Bauer's double and Yogi Berra's single.

The Red Sox got to Terry for a run in the fifth inning and after Jim Piersall hit a two-run homer in the sixth, Tom Morawson relieved Terry. When the Red Sox put two men on in the seventh with two out, Tommy Byrne came in and pitched hitless ball thereafter to nail down the victory.

In the only other American League game scheduled, right-hander Paul Foytack pitched a five-hitter in leading the Detroit Tigers to a 9-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

The Chicago Cubs pushed across a run in the 11th inning on Pete Whisenant's sacrifice fly to defeat Milwaukee, 5-4, and cut the Braves' National League lead to 1½ games over the idle second-place Dodgers.

Hank Aaron of the Braves extended his hitting streak to 23 consecutive games with a single in the first inning.

Alex Grammas singled home Gus Bell in the 10th inning to give the Cincinnati Redlegs a 7-6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Bell opened the 10th with his fourth straight hit, a double, and crossed against two were out on Grammas' single. Bell also hit his 20th homer.

TI-CATS SEEK KNOX, PLAY LIONS WEDNESDAY

HAMILTON, Ont. (BUP)—The Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League today confirmed that attempts would be made later this week to sign Ronnie Knox, star tailback with the University of California at Los Angeles.

Hamilton president, Jake Gaudaur, and coach Jim Trimble will interview Knox at Vancouver Wednesday when the Ti-Cats play an exhibition game against the British Columbia Lions of the Western Conference.

Lokomotivs Romp Against Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—The Moscow Lokomotiv Club Monday night opened a five-game Canadian soccer exhibition tour by crushing a Quebec all-star squad, 9-0, before 12,454 howling fans at the Montreal Baseball Stadium.

Seventh-ranked team in the Soviet Union's Division 3, the Lokomotivs put on a display of short, snappy passing and precision shooting that left their Quebec opponents continually off balance.

Next stop for the touring Russians is Winnipeg. They will also play in Toronto, Vancouver and Calgary. (Game at Vancouver is Saturday.)

The game was slightly marred when an unidentified man tossed anti-Russian pamphlets from the roof of the stadium. Only a few fans were on the receiving end of the papers and the man was quickly ejected from the park.

Forwards Victor Sokolov, Valentin Bubukin, Victor Voroshilov and Yuri Kovalyov potted two goals apiece while centre Eugene Malov added the odd marker.

The Lokomotivs scored three goals in the first 45-minute half then poured in six more against the tired all-stars in the second half.

Shanty I Enters Silver Cup

SEATTLE (AP)—The Shanty I, which won the Seafair Trophy Race here Sunday, will leave Seattle this week for Detroit where it will participate in the Silver Cup Race Aug. 18.

And owner Bill Waggoner of Phoenix, Ariz., and Seattle said his powerful hydro "will be available" as United States defender of the Harmsworth Trophy in Detroit Aug. 23, 25 and 27 against the challenge of Canada's Miss Super-test.

Because of the number of points piled up towards the Harmsworth Trophy Race, Shanty I is now the leading candidate to be the U.S. defender in that contest. Shanty I has more than 800 points toward the honor.

The closest challenger to Shanty I for Harmsworth Trophy selection is Miss Thriftway. But owner Willard Rhodes has decided to concentrate on the Gold Cup Race in Detroit Sept. 1. A new Allison motor will be installed in Miss Thriftway and some other changes made in the boat's hull before the trip east.

Rainiers Hit Skids, Mounties Earn Split

Seattle, sinking contender for the Pacific Coast League pennant, tonight sends ace pitcher Bud Podbielan against the Sacramento hex that has cost the second-place Rainiers three straight defeats in their home park.

The Solons exploded with seven runs in the eighth inning Monday night to drub Seattle 19-5. Sacramento won a doubleheader Sunday. The Rainiers dropped to 7½ games behind league-leading Los Angeles, which was idle.

San Francisco pounded out a pair of two-run homers in the ninth inning, but lost to Portland 7-6. Vancouver split with San Diego, dropping the Padres, 1-0, then bowing 6-0. The first game was a pitchers' duel, with Ed Erautt

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

Tillicum troop under Scoutmaster Bob Webb are planning a hiking and camping trip into the Sooke hills for a week. They plan to make their base at Camp Barnard; bivouacs will be built each night and mapping the country will be the highlight.

From B-P's Outlook. There is a difference in living under canvas and in camping. It may look nice to see a neat row of tents and a large dining marquee, with cooks' quarters and a kitchen range, but that is not camping.

Scouts are urged to get their patrols to pitch their tents in selected nooks, away from the other patrols and to do their own arranging for getting their wood and water.

Scouts should make their own kitchens, refuse pits and latrines, to make their own camp gadgets and furniture.

By this method boys get the training and the keen interest that is invaluable for the individual boy in his life as an adult.

Camping is the place where the patrol leader and the boys under him can appreciate and work the true method of the patrol system.

In the camp a scout can work and obtain his pioneer badge and get the training that is necessary for him to obtain his "First Class" and the badges that are necessary to earn the Bushman's Thong.

10 Girls Escape Vancouver Home

VANCOUVER (CP) — Officials of the Girls' Industrial School complained to police here during the weekend that youths in cars and trucks are aiding "wholesale escapes" from the institution.

The school is a minimum security detention home for young offenders. Saturday, officials reported, 10 girls vanished from the premises within a few hours.

Police were called Saturday and Sunday to disperse carloads of youths cruising around the building encouraging the young prisoners to flee.

In Licenced House, Minors Fined $25

Three youths each were fined $25 in Esquimalt court Monday after pleading guilty to entering licenced premises at Tudor House while under the age of 21.

They were Alan Webb, 19, 905 Parklands; James Whelan, 18, 1280 Park Terrace; and Patrick Thompson, 20, 1162 Old Esquimalt Road.

The offence took place at 9 p.m. on July 28.

Canadian cotton textile manufacturers produced 878,000 pairs of crib blankets and 1,647,000 pairs of other blankets in 1954.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Kathleen Conrad, aged 13, Atlanta, Ga., for her question:

What Are Pygmies?

There are pictures of pygmies on ancient Greek vases. The little people are shown wrestling with storks. The Greeks believed white, long legged storks went to live in Africa with the pygmies during the worst of the winter. So it seems the small pygmies have been sharing our world for a long time. The Greeks named them with their word for fist. A fist was a measure of length, about 13 inches.

Real pygmies are more than four times as tall as one of these old-time fists. You might mistake them for a group of sun-banned, sun-bathing, fifth graders. Their bodies are proportioned more like children than adults. Heads are big, legs are short, trunks are long.

Adult pygmies resemble children in other respects. They are cheerful and more ready to smile than most sober grown-ups. They are very interested in everything going on. They love to try on your hat and swap for knives and pretty beads. When you explain something simple, they can learn quickly. But even second graders can concentrate longer than grown-up pygmies. There are small pygmies living happily in several parts of the world. Some live in the deep forests of the African Congo. Others live in Malaya and the dense vegetation of the Philippines. They are most at home in the tangles of tropical jungles.

They tend to live in small groups of a few families. Their carefree life never keeps them long on one spot. Home is a small dome built of bent boughs and neatly covered with leaves. There is a picture of a group of pygmies in front of such a home in your gift encyclopedia.

The tangled jungles are full of all sorts of dangers. But remember, pygmies have been coping with jungles for at least 2,000 years. To them, the jungle is home. Adders, cobras, big cats and pounding elephants are no more threatening to them than crossing a crowded street is to us. They know the safety rules and teach them to their children.

Pygmies feed on meat, berries, nuts and roots. Game is hunted by the men of the group. They are armed with bows and arrows and blowguns. The blowgun is a hollow tube carrying a slender dart. Sometimes the dart is dipped in poison soaked from certain plants. A little hunter can bring down really big game with one of these poisoned darts.

The charming little pygmies are rated among the rather backward members of the human family. However, they can chatter, figure in twos and cope with some of the toughest surroundings on earth. We might call them mankind's race of happy children. Pygmies seldom, if ever, squabble among themselves.

Andy sends a Hammond International World Globe to Nancy Hoff, age nine, of Cornwells Heights, Penna., for her question:

Where Do They Measure Sea Level From?

The mighty ocean covers over three-quarters of the globe. Its restless waters are forever heaving with life tides. High tide pulls up the waters over one-quarter of the globe into a mountainous pile. At the same time, high tide piles up on the opposite quarter of the globe. In between the heaving waters fall to low tides.

The level of the ocean is changing all the time. The deep oceans, every channel, beach and bay has high tide twice in every 24 hours. Yet we hear such definite figures about sea level. This or that mountain, we learn, is exactly so many feet above sea level. And the level of the sea is forever changing.

Naturally, the experts agreed upon one set time to measure the level of the sea. Which do you think would be fairest, high tide, low tide or in between? Exactly in the middle, of course.

Heights on earth are measured from sea level which is taken exactly between high tide and low tide.

Steel Prices Hiked $8.50 a Ton in U.S.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel prices were pushed upwards an average of $8.50 a ton Monday by U.S. Steel Corp., the largest producer in the United States. Other companies were expected to act quickly to revise prices in the wake of the 34-day country-wide steel strike. A check Monday showed that nearly half of the industry's normal working force has been recalled to the job as steel companies rush to restore production. Steel began flowing from some furnaces during the day, with U.S. Steel scheduling 34 per cent of capacity operations. In announcing the awaited price boosts—at a lower level than generally had been expected—U.S. Steel said it was reflecting "the persistently rising costs with which the company is confronted." The statement said these include "the initial higher employment costs resulting from the new labor agreement." The word "initial" could have

Deaf Repairman Doing Well in TV

TORONTO (CP)—Guy J. Lively, busy repairing television sets in his basement workshop, grins: "I have broken the sound barrier." Mr. Lively, a 38-year-old native of Halifax, is totally deaf. When a boy of 14 he became ill with spinal meningitis. When recovered he could neither walk nor hear. He learned to walk again, and at a school for the deaf, learned to lip read but his formal education ended at grade eight. Mr. Lively moved to Toronto in 1941 and found a job as a book-binder. On the job he found innumerable layouts and drawings connected with radio and television electronics passing through his hands. Intrigued, he determined to enroll in an electronics course. After 50 weeks' instruction he now can take apart, repair, and put together any radio or TV set. He prefers, however, to work on television sets since, he says, he may not hear the results but he can see them. Detecting and correcting distortions in sound are not too difficult. He places his sensitive fingertips on the speaker cones while adjusting the sets with his other hand. Vibrations tell him the story. Mr. Lively credits much of his success in the course — he was graded "decidedly above average" — to his wife, Gladys. Her encouragement was particularly sympathetic. Mrs. Lively can neither hear nor speak. The course involved about 1,500 hours' home study in addition to one class a week. For now the new skill will remain a hobby. But, says Mr. Lively: "We'll never starve, not with the electronics coming along the way they are."

INTEREST SCALED DOWN New Loans Law Passes Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—A government bill to widen federal control over small loans companies received final approval Monday night in the Commons. The controversial measure—fought out before a House committee for weeks—now goes to the Senate for approval before getting royal assent. It would widen the scope of federal control over interest rates on small loans to cover borrowings up to $1,500 instead of $500 as at present. It also would scale down maximum rates of interest on small loans on a sliding basis. The bill sets a maximum rate of two per cent a month on the unpaid balance of loans up to $500, one per cent a month on the unpaid balance up to $1,000 and one-half of one per cent on the unpaid balance up to $1,500. The present rate is two per cent on loans up to $500. However, the new law "uses unrealistic rates as a means of clamping down on the borrower's ability to get financial aid." The association, which represents most Canadian small loans companies, said the industry agrees that a higher ceiling for federal regulation of consumer loans is needed. The bill raised the ceiling to $1,500 from $500. However, the new law "uses unrealistic rates as a means of clamping down on the borrower's ability to get financial aid."

Girl Doing Man-Sized Job As Dynamics Engineer

MONTREAL (CP)—Marolyn Kimball of Boomtown, N.J., is convinced that you can't have to be a man to do a man-sized job. A dynamics engineer at Canadian Ltd., in Montreal, Miss Kimball attributes her success to her childhood love of arithmetic. "I think I was lucky enough to have a wonderful teacher in grade school who taught me to think of mathematics as fascinating instead of hard," said the attractive mathematician. Miss Kimball, who looks like a typical college girl, added that her work at the Canadian aircraft plant is theoretical, and explained that she works mostly on paper

TODAY'S GRAIN

(By James Richardson & Sons Ltd.)

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices developed an easier tone in late moderate trading on the Winnipeg grain exchange today. The declines reflected hesitation on U.S. markets. Barley had fairly good demand from exporters and shipper with reports of a cargo sale to Ireland and parcel lots to the United Kingdom. Oats had some domestic shipping demand and purchases from U.S. houses. Early firmness in flax on buying from processors and American accounts developed into an easier tone later. Rye also sold off in late trade, influenced by declines in U.S. markets. Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were all down 1/2 cent.

AIRMEN MOTOR 1,725 MILES IN 48 HOURS

A pair of Victoria airmen, taking leave from Macdonald station, Manitoba, were so anxious to get back home they made the 1,725 miles in 48 hours flat.

Taking turns driving they averaged just over 35 miles an hour and got eight hours sleep. Take-off time was 5 p.m. Sunday.

They are Cpl. Edgar Arnet, 24, and LAC Barrie Strannix, 1901 Kings.

Oak Bay Stalls City's Request For Gorge Plan

Oak Bay council Monday stalled a city request that all Greater Victoria municipalities work together toward a $1,000,000 development of the Gorge waterway.

The city had suggested that the municipalities as a body ask—the Capital Improvement District Commission to undertake the project.

City alderman Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of the Gorge Waterway Improvement Association, gained support of his council on the request earlier.

But city council felt the request to the government beautification group would carry more weight if all municipalities acted in unison in recommending the development.

The city resolution asked that development be along the lines outlined in the Water Resources Investigation Report of 1950. This called for installation of locks on the Gorge and construction of a channel leading into Portage Inlet from Thetis Cove in Esquimalt Harbor. The project has been estimated to cost $1,000,000.

"The first action should come from Saanich, Esquimalt and Victoria," thought Reeve F. E. Norris.

Oak Bay engineer A. S. G. Musgrave said he thought the city should concentrate on the elimination of sewage in the Gorge area, rather than plan for costly development. Reeve Norris called for tabling of the issue to permit further study.

Oak Bay Names Centennial Chief

Coun. C. H. G. Mann was named chairman of Oak Bay centennial celebration committee Monday night and will represent the municipality in joint talks with other Greater Victoria civic heads concerning co-operative celebration planning.

The Monday night council meeting named the following as delegates to the October Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in October: Coun. Mann, Coun. J. W. Maltby, Coun. J. V. Johnson, Coun. P. F. Birley and Coun. F. W. Hawes.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

A great deal has been written—especially in the vicinity of pages four and five of this newspaper—about the beneficial effects accruing to the man who cuts his own firewood.

According to pages four and five, the man who cuts his own wood is a useful citizen, while he who patronizes a fuel dealer is less than the dust.

Well, if this be true, then one of my acquaintances is possibly the most useful citizen ever to walk this earth.

He recently moved to a house equipped with a sawdust burner.

As it is a rented house, he is in no position to replace the sawdust burner with a furnace which will consume the wood which he cuts himself.

Nothing daunted, he has embarked on the greatest do-it-yourself project of all time.

He is going to saw his own sawdust.

Addition to your fund of knowledge: Victoria is as far from New York as London is from Mecca.

I don't know about you, but this appeals to me as the missing link of vital information; the key to the mess the world is in.

Speaking of the mess the world is in, another acquaintance of mine (if you wonder where I dredge up all these acquaintances, so do I) takes nothing but the dimmest of views.

Things are in such a picayune shape, my acquaintance claims, that life isn't even a rat-race any more.

It's more of a mouse race, he says.

I'm not sure what he means, but it struck me as mighty clever at the time.

I am in a position to deny the rumor that the theme song of the Bell swimming trio (Griffiths, Howarth, and Judges) is "paddlin' Marilyn home."

I have been asked to start an association for the encouragement of pronouncing "buoys" like so: "BOO-EZZE."

The theory being, boys make noise, but buoys drift in the breeze.

Anybody want to join the association?

I think I mentioned the acquaintance who was anxious to hear Doris Day singing All Through the Night.

Steel Price Boost Troubles Council

Special Meeting Today to Assess Effect on New Point Ellice Span

Estimated cost of the new Point Ellice Bridge in the face of rising steel prices will be discussed this afternoon by city council.

City engineer J. C. Garnett said today a basic increase of $8.50 a ton announced by the U.S. Steel Corp. Monday will result in a $20 a ton increase on fabricated steel delivered for the bridge.

His statement was echoed by government and industry officials who foresaw increased costs for various projects as a result of the price boost.

Mr. Garnett, who said he did not think the increase would put the original bridge estimate of $550,000 out of line, was slated to appear before council this afternoon to answer questions.

The city engineer said the estimate was generous enough to cover any such contingencies.

Explains structure.

He explained the basic price increase, plus increases expected to be charged by fabricators, brokers and other handlers, down to the contractors, is expected to make the final cost in Victoria $20 per ton higher.

Ald. Robert Macmillan, who has opposed the city building the bridge by itself, said that he doubts the cost now will be kept under $550,000. Another plebiscite might be necessary, he warned.

Mayor Percy Scourrah said he estimates the cost of repairing damaged bridge piers discovered last week will reach $80,000 and the increase in steel prices about $10,000.

Allowances could be made in the 1957 estimates to cover the increases, the mayor said, and another plebiscite should not be needed.

Authoritative sources, meanwhile, have estimated the steel price increase may cost B.C. Forest Products Ltd. an additional $250,000 above the estimated cost of $38,000,000 for its Crofton pulp mill.

Firm bids were received on some contracts, but others had escalator clauses to protect bidders against such price increases, it was stated.

Government officials said although large quantities of steel have been stockpiled at the old price, costs of some projects will jump.

Railways Minister Ralph Chetwynd said recent deliveries of British steel for the PGE extension will provide for 100 miles of rail north of Prince George into the Peace River.

"We shall need more steel for another 200 odd miles of track and this will undoubtedly cost us more to buy," he said.

10 Passengers Reach Safety

A 60-foot power cruiser from Seattle went aground on the outer side of the Discovery Chatham Island passage this morning, the second ship in two days to ground in the Oak Bay-Cadboro Bay area.

The pleasure cruiser Partridge, with 10 passengers aboard, was intentionally beached by Capt. A. Everts after she encountered dirty weather in Juan de Fuca Strait, en route from Seattle to Sidney.

December Money By-Law On $250,000 Structure

A money by-law seeking authority to borrow up to $250,000 for a new municipal hall will be presented to Oak Bay property holders this December.

Reeve F. E. Norris said today site of the proposed hall will be that of the old Oak Bay Elementary School opposite the present hall in the same block of Oak Bay avenue.

Council made the decision Monday night following a regular meeting when the old school was returned to the municipality by district 61 school board.

It was decided to call tenders for demolition of the 36-year-old school.

PLANS NOT-DRAWN
Reeve Norris said no actual plans for the new building have yet been drawn.

Municipal clerk A. D. Findlay and municipal engineer A. S. G. Musgrave will contact all department heads in an effort to learn exactly what space needs will be.

Council is at the same time giving consideration to building an addition to the Oak Bay Fire Hall to provide new premises for the municipal police department.

Greater Victoria School Board advised council Monday that the old school is no longer needed for school purposes. It is the second time the school has been returned to the municipality.

Due to a classroom shortage two years ago, the school district had to ask its return.

This time the action is definite. All classroom equipment and blackboards have been removed.

Council gave consideration to wrecking the building and salvaging plumbing and two large furnace boilers. But finally decided to call for tenders to dispose of everything through the contractor.

No date was set by council for opening of tenders.

Oak Bay Girl Guides and the Oak Bay Well-Baby Clinic had both made use of the building and a search will be carried out by the municipality to find new quarters for the clinic as soon as possible.

Coun. C. H. G. Mann told council the Oak Bay Kiwanis, of which he is a member, will build a new guide hall near the location of the Scout Hall.

The old school was built about 1920 and operated as Oak Bay's first high school for many years although its latter use has been for elementary school classes.

Although the building of a new hall has been planned for some time, council was previously uncertain whether the old school site was more suitable than the site of the present hall. However, council decided the present hall occupies too small a lot to permit a large enough building and sufficient off-street parking, Reeve Norris stated.

"This is the sort of advice to be expected from the premier," said Mr. Strachan from his home at Nanaimo. "He is a political jackrabbit who has jumped from one party to another in order to get power and he naturally expects other people to do the same."

"My advice to all CCF supporters is to stay loyal to their leaders and help build up our strength for the days ahead. Otherwise they will wake up one morning and find that all their natural resources have been given away to so-called private enterprises."

Liberal leader Arthur Laing said in a television broadcast that a Liberal government in Victoria would lower taxes for farmers and give more aid to education.

On a free-time political broadcast over station CBUT, Mr. Laing outlined a program which included "restoring" independence and authority to municipal councils and school boards" and "putting an end to the resources grab which the present government has allowed, largely for foreign investors, and which it now proposed to extend from our forests to our water power."

Mr. Laing said Liberals would supply adequate municipal aid to finance education.

"Hundreds of our classrooms are going back on double shift in September and almost one quarter of our teachers are without proper certification," Mr. Laing declared.

"As for the farmers, we will put them back in the fight against imported food by reducing taxation on farm lands."

'POLITICAL JACKRABBIT'

Bennett CCF Bid Angers Strachan

A proposal by Premier Bennett that CCF supporters rally behind the Social Credit movement now that the CCF Party has "abandoned its Socialist principles" drew an angry retort today from provincial CCF leader Robert Strachan.

"This is the sort of advice to be expected from the premier," said Mr. Strachan from his home at Nanaimo. "He is a political jackrabbit who has jumped from one party to another in order to get power and he naturally expects other people to do the same."

"My advice to all CCF supporters is to stay loyal to their leaders and help build up our strength for the days ahead. Otherwise they will wake up one morning and find that all their natural resources have been given away to so-called private enterprises."

AS WE LIVE

Be Kind, Tactful When Refusing Hospitality

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

To get out of a difficult situation requires more tact than many young men have. How to do so without causing hard feelings is the problem facing the young man who wrote:

Q. "I came here to work about six months ago and, knowing no one except the people who work where I do, I went to the church functions. I soon met some very nice young people and they have given me a very good time. Now my problem is one of the young girls, especially her mother. The mother has asked me to their home for Sunday dinner and is beginning to treat me as a member of the family."

"I just drifted into this situation because I was lonely and Sunday is a lonely day when you are living alone. The trouble is that I am not in love with the daughter, though she is a nice girl and I enjoy being with her. I would never consider marrying her nor would I want to feel that my marriage was managed by my mother-in-law, as I am sure it would be if I married her. How can I get myself out of this situation without appearing to be rude or unappreciative of all they have done for me?"—S.L.

A. There are two things you can do to make it clear to this girl and to her mother that you have no intentions of marrying the daughter. Both will require tact and firmness on your part.

In the first place, you must stop accepting so many invitations from the family. Even if it means lonely Sundays for you, that will be better than putting yourself in the position of a potential suitor for the daughter's hand. If you continue to be a member of the family, by your constant presence, you will soon find yourself in a position where you have no alternative than to become a member of the family. Merely be "busy" or "have another engagement" when you are invited to the home for dinners in the future.

The second thing you can do is to make it clear that you have no thoughts of marriage at this time. Blame it on your work or something else, but be sure they understand that you are not in a position to contemplate marriage. This you can make clear to them by tactfully referring to your business ambitions or financial obligations to your family.

Mr. and Mrs. Chen Dang, 4846 West Saanich road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy, to Mr. James Alan Sing, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sing, 1717 Blair avenue. The wedding will take place in late August, in Centennial United Church, with Rev. D. Carr, officiating. Miss Chew has chosen Mrs. Alan Houson, as matron of honor; her sister, Miss Grace Chew, and her niece, Miss Shirley Hee, New Westminster, as bridesmaids; also her niece Miss Diane Denice Jones as flower girl. Mr. Andrew Wong will be best man; Dr. John Wong, Nanaimo, and Mr. Alan Sing, the groom-elect's nephew, the ushers. (Photo by Leslie Spencer.)

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Walker, 301 Oakdowne road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Anne, to William John Rutledge, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Rutledge of Toronto. WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Accept Yourself as You Are Says Singer Robert Weede

Robert Weede, who has been a distinguished baritone of opera and concert stage for 20 years, is now star of the overnight smash hit, "The Most Happy Fella." This is his first role in a Broadway musical.

It is interesting to listen in the lobby during intermission to the swooning comments of the women in his audience. Usually it is a tall, handsome guy who stimulates such sentiments as "Isn't he loveable?" "No wonder the girl falls in love with him. How could she resist him?" "Don't you think he is fascinating?" and so forth. This is rather unusual because frankly Mr. Weede is middle-aged, heavy set and bald.

A visit backstage after the final curtain proved most interesting. When asked how he accounts for the romantic feeling he evokes in his audience when he has such a hard time in the play winning the heroine's heart, he shrugged his shoulders and said, "It's the way the part is written. A man like that offers a girl emotional security." Tony (the part he plays) is a warm, loveable man, but the girl in the play has been hurt and it takes him a little while to realize this.

Robert Weede leaned forward and tapped the top of his shiny pate and said, "It is the projection of feeling which dominates a performance, not the adorned or unadorned state of the cranium."

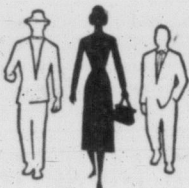

He continued, "Do you know that this is the first time in 20 years I've appeared on-stage without a wig for an opera role or, reluctantly, at the anxious insistence of managers and impresarios, a toupe for concerts? In all that time, so far as I know, I never caused feminine hearts in my audiences to skip a beat. But here in 'The Most Happy Fella' I'm at long last bald in a role, and people like you tell me that women in my audiences react romantically."

Mr. Weede feels strongly that folks place far too much emphasis on defects in appearance. He believes in changing what can be changed for the better if it is important to happiness or health, and he said, "I am all in favor of people making the best of themselves, and beauty columns like yours which are concerned with the flowering of the full personality, are valuable, but I think that there are times when the importance of a physical defect is exaggerated, that it is sometimes a good thing to accept yourself as you are and go on from there."

"This play has convinced me of it! He continued, 'As Shakespeare says, 'All the world's a stage and all the people are merely players,' but it is the projection of feeling, sincerity, warmth, interest, all such characteristics, which dominates our performance as human beings in real life situations; not the fact that we have this right or that wrong with our appearance."

VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Stand on the Dufferin Terrace in Quebec City; listen to the tap, tap, tap of feet walking back and forth on the long boardwalk; look over the high iron railing and down the cliff to Old Town where the ancient stone houses lean close to each other with the pot-bellied look of age.

Turn your eyes up to the Citadel that towers above you at the far end of the Terrace. Then look back and up at the towers and turrets of Chateau Frontenac and the great statue of Samuel de Champlain etched in the last rays of the setting sun.

It gives you a strange feeling of standing on the edge of time.

You are surrounded by laughing, happy faces of tourists and Quebecers who come each night to parade on the Terrace and to watch the sunset on Levis across the St. Lawrence. But somewhere behind you in the shadows are the ghosts of those gay cavaliers and their ladies who walked on the Terrace long years ago.

Ahead of you is a group of sailors off a French ship just docked. They wear the gay blue cap with a red button. They are talking animatedly to three petite Quebec lasses in high heels and gay cotton frocks.

A cloud passes over the setting sun and your eyes are deceived into seeing a group of young cavaliers with plumed hats and swords where the sailors were standing. The girls? They are now wearing silks and satins and they curtsy gracefully as they stroll on the Terrace. The Chateau Frontenac somehow has changed to the old Chateau St. Louis, residence of the governors of old.

The cloud passes and again you are in the present. A group of young cadets from the Citadel, smart in blue blazers and grey flannels, are trying, with the few words they know in French, to become acquainted with some girls walking arm in arm on the boardwalk. The girls' heads go up. They ignore the boys. "Why didn't I concentrate on my French when I was in school?" one lad says ruefully.

While they watch, three young Quebecers come quickly up, take the arms of the girls and walk on.

Present and Past Join Hands

There's a ship's whistle on the river and everyone strolls toward the railing. The sun is setting; the church bells are ringing and in the bluish haze of the sunset's after-glow, the Empress of Scotland is moving slowly past the Terrace on her way down the St. Lawrence to the Atlantic. A small boat goes out to meet her and the few passengers joining the ship at Quebec go aboard from a landing deck and ladder as the ship glides slowly on.

Down below in Old Town you can see the automobiles crossing and recrossing the intersection near the wharves. "They look like toys," a young foreigner says as he stands quietly beside you his eyes pensive with his thoughts.

It's an ever-changing picture. Filled with the present and yet, reminiscent of the past.

The Terrace was erected in the days of Lord Durham, after he had decreed that the old Chateau St. Louis should be demolished. It was opened in 1838. Later, during the time of the Earl of Dufferin it was enlarged and improved and given his name.

Today it is 1,800 feet in length and 60 feet in width. It extends even further for, at the far end, a flight of steps lead to the Citadel. There are five kiosks with ornate roofs and railings. They are named Victoria, Louise, Lorne, Frontenac and Plessis. Here the aged rest and watch the passing parade.

Several evenings a week the band of the famous Royal 22nd Regiment plays in the stand beside Chateau Frontenac. On special occasions the Sunset Ceremony is performed on the Terrace by the same regiment.

But no matter whether the band plays or not, in the cool of the evening, all Quebec puts on its finery and joins the tourists on the Terrace to participate in a scene reminiscent of the glory of the Quebec of 250 years or more ago when cavaliers and ladies surveyed the same scene that surrounds this wonderful city of beauty, allure, history and romance.

Miss Karel Larsen, gowned in a waltz-length gown of shimmering sky-blue brocade, descended the flower-decked staircase and entered the paneled hall at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. L. Dickson, 1598 Rockland Avenue, for her marriage to Mr. James William Logan. The ceremony took place before a large fireplace banked with white gladioli and white sweet peas and flanked by tall white candles.

The bride's full-skirted gown, designed on princess lines, had a deep "V" neckline and she wore a half hat of matching material with a cloud of blue veiling. She wore matching accessories and for "something borrowed" a strand of pearls. She carried a cascade of sweetheart roses.

The wedding march was played on the piano by Miss Karen Dickson. H. E. Ballard gave the bride away. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Watson, 29 Southdown Road, Wimbledon, Eng. The groom, recently from Edinburgh, Scotland, is son of Mrs. Margaret T. Logan, 757 Wilson Street, Victoria. Dr. E. Foreman conducted the ceremony.

Miss Gertrude Ballard was the only attendant. She chose a dusty pink gown in princess lines with full skirt and moulded bodice with wide, V-neckline. Her hat, shoes and gloves matched her gown and she carried a bouquet of mauve sweet peas centred with pink carnations.

Best man was Ronald Clydesdale. Following the service a buffet tea was served, table decorations being in a white, blue and gold theme. Centre tier of the three-tier wedding cake was inscribed with the names "Karel and James" and a pink rose of England entwined with the purple thistle of Scotland. White candles and carnations flanked the cake.

Derrick I. Lachlan proposed the toast to the bride. The bride chose a sheath dress of pink Swiss cotton with blue and grey floral pattern and high, soft neckline, for travelling on honeymoon in Washington state. Her hat matched her dress and she wore a duster of corded silk in the same blue as her wedding dress with pink and grey accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan will live in Suite 4, 1598 Rockland Avenue.

The bride and groom are both members of the Victoria Theatre Guild.

Want the Perfect Secretary? Then Read, Heed Her Peeves

If bosses are having trouble getting a secretary—to say nothing of the perfect one—it seems there is another side to the coin. The secretaries say a lot of bosses leave a lot to be desired too.

At a recent meeting of 40 of them a secretarial snoop named Suzy sat in, assigned to the job by the editors of the trade magazine of the Bureau of Business Practice.

RULES FOR BOSSES

These are the things the girls wish their bosses wouldn't do:

Jangle keys or change in the pocket while dictating.

Face up and down a large office often out of earshot, while dictating.

Look out the window and dictate to the wild blue yonder.

Blame the secretary when they just plain forget something.

Refer to the secretary as "my girl."

Go rummaging through the files leaving them in a mess.

Forbid the secretary to clean up his desk.

Ask her to do personal errands during her lunch hour and then complain if she is 10 minutes late.

Make notes of his appointments on scraps of paper or match books which he files in his pockets or sticks under the blotter.

Scrub notes for the secretary on the margin of his newspaper en route to work.

TRAVEL BUREAU PRODUCTION

Cariboo Film Available Soon

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Although the Cariboo country covers an area of 35,000 square miles, you can see the best of it in 28 minutes in a new color film called "Legend of the West" produced for the B.C. government travel bureau.

"The majority of Canadians know little about the Cariboo," deputy trade minister Tom Sturges told government officials and civil servants attending a preview of the film Monday.

"I am sure this documentary will make the Cariboo better known than ever before and great numbers of people will want to travel there after seeing it."

"Legend of the West" will be available at the end of the month to any responsible organizations, including schools and service clubs.

It deals with almost every phase of life in the Cariboo—ranching, farming, hunting, fishing, prospecting and holiday-making—and concludes with a moving tribute to the pioneers of lonely Barkerville, now a ghost town.

The wide vistas and breathtaking panoramas for which the Cariboo is famous are portrayed with skillful and imaginative photography and the color process used is of high quality.

After the preview, Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd commended director Dick Colby, who with B. H. Atkins also did the camera work. The commentary was written by Harry P. McEever and narrated by Ed Farey.

"Movies like this are invaluable to our tourist trade," commented publicity commissioner George Warren. "We cannot have too many of them."

Dick Colby said he and his colleagues spent six weeks making the film and enjoyed every minute of it.

WHILE SON ON DRUNK CHARGE

'Tough Guy's' Wife Wins Costly Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP)—Mrs. Gladys Robinson, 60, has been awarded an uncontested divorce and an estimated $2 million settlement from actor Edward G. Robinson.

While Mrs. Robinson testified her husband of 29 years wanted a divorce so he could lead his own life, her 23-year-old son pleaded innocent to felony drunk driving in an adjoining courtroom Monday.

Mrs. Robinson and the "tough guy" actor separated February, 1955.

Mrs. Robinson and the actor will divide funds from the sale of their art collection which is valued at $2.5 million. She was awarded $3,500 monthly alimony for 11 months and 25 per cent of Robinson's gross income until her death or remarriage.

Young Robinson, Edward Jr., appeared in an adjacent courtroom on practically the same time on the drunk driving charge resulting from a June 21 accident in which his sports car rammed four parked cars. He was freed on $10,000-bail pending trial Oct. 15.

We have to use the superlative
"great" to describe this picture because no other adjective will do.
It's a great film depicting a great story, performed by a great cast in a great setting.

It makes great use of Technicolor and in addition is a great musical.
It brings to the screen the first full ballerina ever written, composed and designed for the cinema.

In short, for Drama, Romance and exquisite ballet, it's a great experience.
For sheer entertainment for all ages we heartily recommend this picture to our patrons.

Vote Buying Grows

Clerics Fear Quebec Social System Ruined

(From CP and BUP)

QUEBEC — A wave of "stupidity and immorality" swept Quebec province during the June 20 provincial election campaign, two Laval University professors said in a study published today.

The report of the two clergymen named no political parties but was a sweeping condemnation of election campaign methods.

They said the reason they prepared the paper is that it is "urgent" in Quebec province to start a program of moral and civic education among Roman Catholic residents.

"Work must get under way before demagogues and fascist apprentices bestialize the masses to a point where any improvement will become impossible," the paper said.

They added that parish priests—who wield wide influence in their areas—took active part in the recent campaign. In one case a cure advised his parishioners to vote for the party in power.

"If you don't, we'll get nothing," he is quoted as having said referring to the provincial government grants.

The exact nature of the document was not immediately known although it was reported to have been circulated among members of the Quebec Roman Catholic clergy. It was not believed to have the status of an official Quebec church document.

NAMES WITHHELD

The names of the authors were not published, presumably at their request.

A sweeping condemnation of Quebec electoral campaign methods is contained in the study which accuses politicians of:

1. Waving the scarecrow of Communism in the recent campaign.
2. Buying votes, corrupting election officers and using violence.
3. Raising the method of using myths and lies into an electoral system.

"Those who now employ or tolerate such proceedings were not their inventors," said the report. "We must admit that our Catholic province has been familiar for some time with what are called election frauds. They are the monopoly of no one party."

The two Roman Catholic priests, well-known in university and social work circles, wrote in the 4,000-word paper that each Quebec election has become "an occasion to kill the democratic spirit."

Marilyn's Diary

Stella Jolks!

And now we know. If everything goes right, we will stop thinking about swimming and talking about swimming and start doing something about swimming this Friday.

For myself, it is a wonderful relief to have a swimming date to think about, even though the weather may wash it out and make us wait another little while.

I guess I am just like any other athlete in that there comes a time when you want to do something more than practice; you want to get out and get at the actual game. Coach Gus has brought my training program along beautifully and I feel in good shape and, above all, anxious to give the Strait a try.

If we run into trouble on Friday while we are swimming, we won't waste ourselves to satisfy our pride. We will come out and try it again. We can be persistent and stubborn and we're not going to let the Strait scare us into making mistakes.

I will really have a couple of things to throw at the Strait, if it wants to get nasty.

I have a package of 250 four-leaf clovers that were presented to me by Tommy Barker, who grows them. There are even some five, six and seven-leaf clovers.

I was exceptionally happy to receive the gift because when I left Toronto, I was unable to find the four-leaf clover that I carried with me on my swims in Lake Ontario and the English Channel.

As another omen of good luck, Gus has been finding money—nickels and dimes on the sidewalk. He claims this is a sign of good things to come. I hope he's right.

Another thing I will have, which will be worth more than good luck charms, is a thought that Mrs. Ellice Cavin, the kindly wife of my navigator, left with me the first time I met her.

Mrs. Cavin told me, "I will be praying for you just as hard as Ellice will be working for you."

I don't think the Strait has any ammunition like that.

Second Penguin Egg Due to Hatch Today

If it does, Stanley Park will join the zoos of London and Edinburgh as the only ones having two penguin chicks born in captivity.

Chief Shot to Death By Quebec Prowlers

STE. AGATHE, Que. (CP)—Acting Police Chief Ernest Chailfoux was shot down at dawn today in a flurry of gunfire and died in hospital of wounds believed inflicted by one or two prowlers tampering with cars in this Laurentian town.

Chailfoux, 51, father of five children, left headquarters alone to investigate a call from Grocer J. Cloutier about 4 a.m., Chief Ovila Tasse said.

Cloutier was first quoted as saying he saw two men prowling around autos but later reported he was definite about only one. He said Chailfoux was met by "at least six shots."

Chailfoux died in hospital after managing to drive his radio car back to headquarters. Then he slumped down in the front seat.

Provincial police took over the search for the slayers.

"There are few details yet," Chief Tasse said. "But we discovered a number of cars which had been tampered with near where we believe the captain was shot."

Ste. Agathe is about 60 miles northwest of Montreal. A provincial police medical officer left for the scene to conduct an autopsy.

Road blocks were thrown up by provincial police in the area which is swarming with tourists at this time of year. It is a popular ski resort in the winter after managing to drive his

Suez Hopes Dimming

Oil Shares Skid at London

(UP, AP, Reuters Dispatches)

LONDON — Hopes for next week's Suez conference dimmed today as Britain prepared "the biggest airlift since the Berlin blockade" to fly crack troops to the Middle East.

The Suez crisis sent oil shares skidding $420,000,000 within a few minutes of the opening of the London stock exchange today. At New York Monday some oil issues dropped $14, but most regained ground today.

Cairo reported Egyptian naval officers have been recalled from Communist training centres to man Soviet-made submarines and warships.

An Egyptian close to President Nasser says Egypt may take the Suez Canal case to the United Nations Security Council before the 24-power conference in London Aug. 16 to internationalize the vital waterways—even though Britain earlier ruled out the UN as a forum for the dispute.

If Nasser attends the London parley — his decision still is secret — he probably will demand discussion of the U.S.-controlled Panama Canal and other international waterways. In this, according to Cairo informants, he may have Russian support.

Other major developments:

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles voiced fears Britain and France may use military force unless Egypt adopts a more conciliatory attitude.

CAIRO — Nasser announced he would hold a "press conference of international importance" next Sunday.

LONDON—Only 10 nations have formally accepted the invitation to the London conference—Australia, Ethiopia, Holland, Italy, Japan, Norway, Pakistan, Portugal, Sweden and Turkey. Unofficial reports say Iran and New Zealand had accepted.

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—Premier Sidney Holland tells parliament New Zealand may send the cruiser Royalist to bolster British naval units in the Middle East. Royalist is now on a shakedown cruise in the Mediterranean area.

LONDON — British Prime Minister Anthony Eden schedules report on the Suez crisis by BBC television Wednesday night.

CAIRO — The semi-official Mideast News Agency says the Arab League political committee meeting scheduled Sunday was expected to take "positive steps" to back up Egyptian actions.

PARIS—The newspaper Combat said Secretary of State for Air Henri Laforest has ordered the recall of reserve airmen and earmarked F-84 and F-86 squadrons for possible use; other reports say the army might remove some of its 400,000 armed forces from Algeria.

SPAN COLLAPSE BLOCKS OFF FRASER CANYON

YALE, B.C. (CP)—The Fraser Canyon was closed indefinitely to road traffic today, RCMP announced, after the collapse of a bridge five miles north of here.

Police said the wooden structure collapsed with a roar moments after a loaded truck passed over it. The structure dropped more than 100 feet into Sawmill Creek.

Deputy Highways Minister Evan Jones said here that engineers were being flown to Yale this morning to deal with the collapsed bridge on the Trans-Canada Highway. "I hope to get a report from them soon," he said.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

THIS DAY, O GOD, we pray for the discernment to see those things in our own lives and way of living which are less than they ought be. Give us the courage to overcome apathy and inertia, to fight for what we know to be right. Give us resolute determination, whatever the cost, that Thy will be done, so that we may be victors even in seeming defeat; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

ONE COMING, ONE GOING

Marilyn, Ben Could Meet in Mid-Strait

Marilyn Bell and Ben Laughren may pass each other going in opposite directions Friday in their respective attempts to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Miss Bell plans to leave from Horseshoe Bay on the Victoria side of the strait at 5:45 a.m. in her first attempt.

Ove Witt, Laughren's manager-trainer, said this morning that he may take Laughren over to Port Angeles tonight or Wednesday to try a swim from the American side later this week. Both Laughren and 26-year-old Billie Benedict were forced to call off swim plans early this morning because of high winds that sprang up Monday night.

Miss Benedict, who had planned to swim at 4 this morning, cancelled her plans indefinitely.

Witt said today: "We have done quite a bit of thinking but, as yet, we do not have a definite plan. We hope to swim from this side if we get a break in the weather Wednesday morning, but if we don't we'll head for Port Angeles and try it from there Thursday or Friday morning."

Swim Attempt Set Two Weeks Early

By DENNY BOYD

Marilyn Bell, Canada's "swimming sweetheart," will begin her effort to conquer Juan de Fuca Strait at 5:45 a.m. Friday.

She will start from Horseshoe Bay on the Beacon Hill waterfront, if weather permits.

The surprise announcement that she will make the attempt two weeks earlier than first planned came from her training camp at Old Charming Inn this morning.

It also firmed up the decision to make the swim from Victoria to Port Angeles, instead of in the other direction in which Bert Thomas last year became the only person so far to defeat the Strait.

The two factors were settled after Capt. Ellice Cavin of Island Tug & Barge Co., her navigator, had watched Marilyn perform in the water and made a close study of the tidal pattern of the next two weeks.

The Friday morning start is one of a series of "target times," worked out by Capt. Cavin.

SWIM CHART IN TIMES WEDNESDAY

Wednesday's issue of the Times will carry a copy of the special gridded reference chart of Juan de Fuca Strait to be used in following news reports and CKDA radio broadcasts of the Marilyn Bell attempt and other swims.

Instead of aiming at a specific date and gearing efforts for one try, Capt. Cavin has drawn up a list of favorable starting times, each contingent on weather conditions at that time. Friday is the first of these favorable swim dates, according to his calculations.

Hours Changed to Catch Tides

However, should Friday prove unfavorable, either because of adverse weather or unforeseen tidal complications, the swim will be postponed for a 24-hour period to catch the next desired tide. The starting time will be altered each day to conform with changing tide conditions.

Capt. Cavin's schedule also provides for the possibility that Marilyn may have to abandon her swim because of sudden winds or tide rips. In such a case, the same plan of 24-hour rescheduling will be followed. Marilyn, who has conquered both Lake Ontario and the English Channel, will be swimming for a guaranteed $20,000 put up by the Toronto Telegram. The Victoria Daily Times and associated interests.

The purse will be boosted to $30,000 for a successful swim. Preliminary plans had called for a late-August or early-September effort.

However, the plans were changed as a result of Marilyn's quick adaption to the low temperatures of local waters and the recognition by Capt. Cavin of her speed in the water under the difficult conditions that the now-famous 18.3 mile strait can produce to thwart a swimmer.

Coach Gus Ryder says she is at the peak of physical condition and he feels further that her "desire," so necessary in a gruelling swim in icy waters, is perfectly honed.

Actually, it took only one two-hour session of watching Marilyn in the water to prompt Capt. Cavin to an earlier-than-expected start.

Capt. Cavin had thought earlier the Toronto swimmer would be unwise to attempt the strait until the last week in August, when winds can be expected to abate slightly.

Navigator Astonished at Speed Made

However, the navigator accompanied Marilyn on a two-hour swim in open water from Horseshoe Bay Saturday and found, to his expressed amazement, that the 130-pound girl had travelled five miles out from Horseshoe Bay in two hours with a two-mile easterly drift on the end of the flood tide.

After the workout, Capt. Cavin consulted his tide charts again in a new frame of thinking and recommended to Ryder that a start be made Friday morning.

The veteran tugboat skipper hopes to get Marilyn near the centre of the strait in a period of slack water and then to swim her into Ediz Hook on an ebb tide.

Asked about the predicted time of the swim, Capt. Cavin said "Ten to 12 hours. I hope for a little better than 10, if we get the breaks. And she deserves them."

"Winds are apt to be bad at this time of year," he said.

"and you can't always go by the forecast but generally they don't blow up till fairly well on in the day. Marilyn is so fast that I'm hopeful of getting her across before wind comes."

Marilyn greeted the announcement with an air of calm and relief.

She said, "I want to get going. I feel that I'm ready and I'm glad to have a date early enough to give me a chance for further tries if I don't make it the first time."

Said coach Ryder, "It's a gamble. We may have to wait from day to day until the winds are right. We may have to take Marilyn out part way over and try again later. It's no use having her buck conditions if the Strait acts up rough, and it can, as we've discovered."

If Marilyn is able to go on Friday her effort will be two years plus one day since Florence Chadwick, under Bapco-Times sponsorship, started the modern Strait swimming campaign.

Moving Performance

Members of a Canadian Legion branch have designed and built a portable outdoor stage and donated it to a Veterans' hospital. Mounted on a trailer, it can be assembled in a few minutes into a 30' x 27' stage and moved to any part of the hospital grounds.

Light, easy-to-handle aluminum was the Legion members' obvious choice of material. And in case of sudden thunderstorms, it would be a simple matter to roll the performers, stage and all, under the nearest shelter. A typical example of how aluminum often provides not just one but several advantages on a single job.

"parade" of gifts such as refrigerators and television sets.

"There is reason to believe that laymen are not alone in submitting to the influence of money or goods. Donations to welfare, parish or religious associations can sometimes touch the heart of ecclesiastics as well."

The two priests said the situation in Quebec Province has reached an "acute stage" and no "lucid Catholic" can remain "indifferent."

They said that clergymen accustomed to preaching on Sundays against the wearing of shorts in public probably would be shocked by the statements set down.

"But Christian morality, which sets charity, truth and justice as the cornerstones of social life, and finds lies, perversion of human conscience and systematic corruption a cause of scandal, cannot stand unmoved in the face of such an obvious array of facts."

LIES USED

The use of lies on a large scale, through modern publicity mediums, often leads the masses to accept them as truths, they said.

"This method is revealed as a grave danger when Catholics accept it as legitimate."

The document says that "investigators"—not further identified but are presumably members of the clergy—now are analyzing the result of the polls where religious orders are located.

A preliminary survey has shown, the report said, that in many cases members of religious order voted as a block for one party.

"Respect for the electoral system requires that some solution be found to this problem," said the priests.

SOLUTION

"To us the conclusion seems obvious: An electoral period such as the one just completed shows itself a terrible instrument of demoralization and de-

Christianization. What makes a Christian country is not primarily the number of churches, the pious statements of politicians, the apparent temporal and political influence of the church, or 'good relations' between church and state. It is primarily the respect for truth, belief in justice, integrity of conscience, and respect for freedom."

"Present electoral practices are a frontal attack on all these values. The danger is even greater in that much evidence shows that the conscience of the faithful and even that of members of the religious orders no longer finds cause to be shocked by such corruption."

It is urgent to begin a patient work of moral and civil education of our Catholics," the study report continued. "We are obliged to admit that in this field our English-speaking compatriots provide the example. Moreover, it is our political morality that shocks them. The work is needed, before demagogues and apprentice-fascists so stupefy the masses that all efforts at reawakening become impossible."

Oak Bay Stalls City's Request For Gorge Plan

Oak Bay council Monday stalled a city request that all Greater Victoria municipalities work together toward a $1,000,000 development of the Gorge waterway.

The city had suggested that the municipalities as a body ask the Capital Improvement District Commission to undertake the project.

City alderman Geoffrey Edgewood, chairman of the Gorge Waterway Improvement Association, gained support of his council on the request earlier.

But city council felt the request to the government beautification group would carry more weight if all municipalities acted in unison in recommending the development.

The city resolution asked that development be along the lines outlined in the Water Resources Investigation Report of 1950. This called for installation of locks on the Gorge and construction of a channel leading into Portage Inlet from Thetis Cove in Esquimalt Harbor. The project has been estimated to cost $1,000,000.

"The first action should come from Saanich, Esquimalt and Victoria," thought Reeve F. E. Norris.

Oak Bay engineer A. S. G. Musgrave said he thought the city should concentrate on the elimination of sewage in the Gorge area, rather than plan for costly development. Reeve Norris called for tabling of the issue to permit further study.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, AUGUST 7, 1956 11

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

A great deal has been written—especially in the vicinity of pages four and five of this newspaper—about the beneficial effects accruing to the man who cuts his own firewood. According to pages four and five, the man who cuts his own wood is a useful citizen, while he who patronizes a fuel dealer is less than the dust.

Well, if this be true, then one of my acquaintances is possibly the most useful citizen ever to walk this earth. He recently moved to a house equipped with a sawdust burner.

As it is a rented house, he is in no position to replace the sawdust burner with a furnace which will consume the wood which he cuts himself.

Nothing daunted, he has embarked on the greatest do-it-yourself project of all time.

He is going to saw his own sawdust.

Addition to your fund of knowledge: Victoria is as far from New York as London is from Mecca.

I don't know about you, but this appeals to me as the missing link of vital information; the key to the mess the world is in.

Speaking of the mess the world is in, another acquaintance of mine (if you wonder where I dredge up all these acquaintances, so do I) takes nothing but the dimmest of views.

Things are in such picaresque shape, my acquaintance claims, that life isn't even a rat race any more. It's more of a mouse race, he says.

I'm not sure what he means, but it struck me as mighty clever at the time.

I am in a position to deny the rumor that the theme song of the Bell swimming trio (Griffiths, Howarth, and Judges) is "Paddlin' Marilyn home."

I have been asked to start an association for the encouragement of pronouncing "buoys" like so: "BOO-EEZE." The theory being, boys make noise, but buoys drift in the breeze.

Anybody want to join the association?

I think I mentioned the acquaintance who was anxious to hear Doris Day singing All Through the Night.

Now he is worried because he caught himself reading Saturday Night in the afternoon.

Ah, well, Between Times isn't very good, but it is at your service all days of the hour and night.

QOR Colonel Leaves Soon For New Post

Promoted to chief instructor at Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Borden, Ont., Lieut. Col. W. H. V. Matthews, 40, will give up command of Second Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, at the end of the month.

The popular Vancouver Island officer brought the battalion to Camp Gordon Head in June, 1955, after a year with Commonwealth forces in Korea. At that time the troops were to make Victoria their temporary home while awaiting accommodation in Calgary, home of the First Battalion, QORs.

According to army plans, the Second Battalion will move out before the end of this year.

Col. Matthews joined the unit in 1951, a short time before the present battalion was formed for Commonwealth duty.

The CO brought about 300 men of the battalion back from summer concentration at Camp Wainwright, Alta., over the weekend, and many of these, plus an additional 200 have begun 30 days' annual leave.

The unit held a farewell parade for him prior to breaking camp.

Veteran of BCE Honored to Mark 50-Year Service

First man to gain distinction with 50 or more years of service was the late A. T. Goward, operating vice-president for Vancouver Island, who had 54 years to his credit before retirement.

Mr. Mackintosh retires next year.

He was presented last week with a television set by E. W. Arnott, Island vice-president of the company, on behalf of the president and board of directors.

Steel Price Boost Troubles Council

Special Meeting Today to Assess Effect on New Point Ellice Span

Estimated cost of the new Point Ellice Bridge in the face of rising steel prices are being discussed this afternoon by city council.

City engineer J. C. Garnett said today a basic increase of $8.50 a ton announced by the U.S. Steel Corp. Monday will result in a $20 a ton increase on fabricated steel delivered for the bridge.

His statement was echoed by government and industry officials who foresaw increased costs for various projects as a result of the price boost.

Mr. Garnett, who said he did not think the increase would put the original bridge estimate of $350,000 out of line, was slated to appear before council this afternoon to answer questions.

The city engineer said the estimate was generous enough to cover any such contingencies.

He explained the basic price increase, plus increases expected to be charged by fabricators, brokers and other handlers, down to the contractor, is expected to make the final cost in Victoria $20 per ton higher.

Ald. Robert Macmillan, who has opposed the city building the bridge by itself, said that he doubts the cost now will be kept under $550,000. Another plebiscite might be necessary, he warned.

Mayor Percy Scourrah said he estimates the cost of repairing damaged bridge piers discovered last week will reach $80,000 and the increase in steel prices about $10,000.

Allowances could be made in the 1957 estimates to cover the increases, the mayor said, and another plebiscite should not be needed.

Authoritative sources, meanwhile, have estimated the steel price increase may cost B.C. Forest Products Ltd. an additional $250,000 above the estimated cost of $38,000,000 for its Crofton pulp mill.

Firm bids were received on some contracts, but others had escalator clauses to protect bidders against such price increases, it was stated.

Government officials said although large quantities of steel have been stockpiled at the old price, costs of some projects will jump.

Railways Minister Ralph Chetwynd said recent deliveries of British steel for the PGE extension will provide for 100 miles of rail north of Prince George into the Peace River.

"We shall need more steel for another 200 odd miles of track and this will undoubtedly cost us more to buy," he said.

Witnesses Challenge Statements by Dean

Jehovah's Witnesses here today blasted back at Dean Brian Whitlow for his sermon Sunday in Christ Church Cathedral denouncing the sect.

"It is indeed regrettable that the Dean did not make sure of his facts before launching an attack," a prepared statement said.

The Dean charged Witnesses with being "deluded, arrogant and vicious." That Witnesses were guilty of "unscriptural speculation," and were prone to a "loveless attitude towards Christian people," plus other charges.

"Instead of being hateful and vicious, Witnesses show true love by going from door-to-door with a message of peace and goodwill. They are not motivated by hate but by love of their fellow man. They have no vicious hateful message such as conscious eternal punishment for the wicked but a message of love and peace for all those who serve the true God, Jehovah," said Witness spokesman Clifford Roberts.

"It's the doctrines of other churches we believe are not in harmony with the Bible, not the people," he said. "All false doctrines are of the Devil, but we don't maintain that they are all false, by any means."

"For instance, we believe the doctrine of eternal torture is false and we don't believe in the immortality of the soul. The dead are dead until resurrection."

"We are not traditionalists. We don't build a fence around what we believe as do the older churches," he said.

Witnesses, the statement said, believed "in one true God whose name is Jehovah, and in his son Christ Jesus. Not in three gods of a so-called trinity."

Dean Whitlow said movement founder Charles Taze Russell was "readily granted" a divorce after his wife sued him. The Witness statement claimed otherwise.

"They had a legal separation but not on the grounds of immorality as charged by clerical enemies of the truth. The court's records plainly fix the lie."

Further, "the Dean says 'that the belief that Jesus was a man while on earth makes nonsense of the Christian belief that we are saved by Christ's death.' However, the apostle Paul did not seem to think it was nonsense for when writing to Timothy he said 'for there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus who gave himself a ransom for all.'"

HEADED FOR DISASTER

The statement continued, "Bertrand Russell, the philosopher, not long ago declared 'ever since 1914 the world has been reeling drunkenly towards disaster,' and that intellectuals today are agreed a world ended in 1914."

"The dean scoffs" at Witness belief in the end of the world on that date, "however it was foretold in the last days scoffers would arise."

The dean said Witnesses pass over the main body of the teaching of Christ and his apostles. This was denied by Witnesses, who pointed out in one of their textbooks entitled "This Means Everlasting Life," circulated in Victoria, "there are over 1,200 verses quoted from the words of Jesus and his apostles."

On the doctrine of the Trinity, Witnesses believe "reasonable people know that a father cannot be his own son; neither can a son be his own father. Father and son indicate two separate personalities."

Power Cruiser Runs Aground Off Oak Bay

10 Passengers Reach Safety

A 60-foot power cruiser from Seattle went aground on the outer side of the Discovery-Chatham Island passage this morning, the second ship in two days to ground in the Oak Bay-Cadboro Bay area.

The pleasure cruiser Partridge, with 10 passengers aboard, was intentionally beached by Capt. A. Everts after she encountered dirty weather in Juan de Fuca Strait, en route from Seattle to Sidney.

The craft took on a heavy weight of water in a moderate gale, and was beached as a precautionary measure. The passengers were taken ashore to Sidney.

Jack McLaughlin, salvage superintendent of Island Tug and Barge Ltd., was at the scene this morning to survey the Partridge and see if the hull is sound enough for re-floating.

Monday, a 55-foot fishpacker, the Joan W1 of Vancouver, went aground one-half mile off Oak Bay Beach boathouse after a fire which started in her galley gutted the deckhouse and forecastle.

She was towed to McKay Cormack shipyard by Island Tug's Island Comet. Official surveys estimate damage at $10,000.

The Island Mariner will tow the "packer to Celtic Shipyard, Vancouver, for repairs. B.C. Packers Ltd. is owner of the ship and the Celtic yard.

A third marine mishap in southern Vancouver Island waters involved the small outboard Missfire II, owned by Al Laquesne of Chemainus. Bound for Seattle with two passengers and the owner aboard, the small craft developed motor trouble Monday night and air-sea rescue was alerted.

The tug Erne was in the vicinity, and towed Missfire II to Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring Island.

Taxi Meter Seal Broken, Operator Pays Fine of $10

Operating a taxi with a broken seal on the meter cost an Island Taxi Co. driver a $10 fine in city police court today.

Gladya Beasley, 1024B Pandora, had pleaded not guilty to the charge, laid under a city by-law.

Counsel David Sloan sought to have the charge dismissed on the grounds the seal was still in working order and the taxi firm had not been informed what type of seal was required.

Police said the firm had been warned about the meter on June 5 and the charge was laid June 20 when it had not been repaired.

The speedometer cable leading to the meter had been pulled out, it was stated.

The accused was found guilty by Magistrate A. I. Thomas.

December Money By-Law On $250,000 Structure

A money by-law seeking authority to borrow up to $250,000 for a new municipal hall will be presented to Oak Bay property holders this December.

Reeve F. E. Norris said today site of the proposed hall will be that of the old Oak Bay Elementary School opposite the present hall in the same block of Oak Bay avenue.

Council made the decision Monday night following a regular meeting when the old school was returned to the municipality by district 61 school board.

It was decided to call tenders for demolition of the 36-year-old school.

PLANS NOT DRAWN

Reeve Norris said no actual plans for the new building have yet been drawn.

Municipal clerk A. D. Findlay and municipal engineer J. S. G. Musgrave will contact all department heads in an effort to learn exactly what space needs will be.

Council is at the same time giving consideration to building an addition to the Oak Bay Fire Hall to provide new premises for the municipal police department.

Greater Victoria School Board advised council Monday that the old school is no longer needed for school purposes. It is the second time the school has been returned to the municipality. Due to a classroom shortage two years ago, the school district had to ask its return.

This time the action is definite. All classroom equipment and blackboards have been removed.

Council gave consideration to wrecking the building and salvaging plumbing and two large furnace boilers. But finally decided to call for tenders to dispose of everything through the contractor.

No date was set by council for opening of tenders.

Oak Bay Girl Guides and the Oak Bay Well-Baby Clinic had both made use of the building and a search will be carried out by the municipality to find new quarters for the clinic as soon as possible.

Coun. C. H. G. Mann told council the Oak Bay Kiwanis, of which he is a member, will build a new guide hall near the location of the Scout Hall.

The old school was built about 1920 and operated as Oak Bay's first high school for many years although its latter use has been for elementary school classes.

Although the building of a new hall has been planned for some time, council was previously uncertain whether the old school site was more suitable than the site of the present hall. However, council decided the present hall occupies too small a lot to permit a large enough building and sufficient off-street parking, Reeve Norris stated.

'POLITICAL JACKRABBIT'

Bennett CCF Bid Angers Strachan

A proposal by Premier Bennett that CCF supporters rally behind the Social Credit movement now that the CCF Party has "abandoned its Socialist principles" drew an angry retort today from provincial CCF leader Robert Strachan.

Bright Weather Will Continue

Today's fine weather will continue through Wednesday, according to weatherman William Mackie.

There is some storm activity north of here, but it will give little more than possible early morning cloud, he said.

Temperatures will range between 52 and 70 degrees, and afternoon and evening winds will reach speeds of 20 miles per hour.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Ontario, Crescent, Cayuga, Athabaskan, Sioux, Ste. Therese, Stettler and Sussexvale are returning to Esquimalt Friday.

New Glasgow returning to Esquimalt early September.

Porte Quebec returns Esquimalt Friday.

Earle S. Upton, 1941 Ash, was fined $10 in city police court today for operating a chimney sweeping business without a city licence. He pleaded guilty.

"This is the sort of advice to be expected from the premier," said Mr. Strachan from his home at Nanaimo. "He is a political jackrabbit who has jumped from one party to another in order to get power and he naturally expects other people to do the same."

"My advice to all CCF supporters is to stay loyal to their leaders and help build up our strength for the days ahead. Otherwise they will wake up one morning and find that all their natural resources have been given away to so-called private enterprises."

Liberal leader Arthur Laing said in a television broadcast that a Liberal government in Victoria would lower taxes for farmers and give more aid to education.

On a free-time political broadcast over station CBTU, Mr. Laing outlined a program which included "restoring independence and authority to municipal councils and school boards" and "putting an end to the resources grab which the present government has allowed, largely for foreign investors, and which it now proposed to extend from our forests to our water power."

Mr. Laing said Liberals would supply adequate municipal aid to finance education.

"Hundreds of our classrooms are going back on double shift in September and almost one quarter of our teachers are without proper certification," Mr. Laing declared.

"As for the farmers, we will put them back in the fight against imported food by reducing taxation on farm lands."

AS WE LIVE

Be Kind, Tactful When Refusing Hospitality

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

To get out of a difficult situation requires more tact than many young men have. How to do so without causing hard feelings is the problem facing the young man who wrote:

Q. "I came here to work about six months ago and, knowing no one except the people who work where I do, I went to the church functions. I soon met some very nice young people and they have given me a very good time. Now my problem is one of the young girls, especially her mother. The mother has asked me to their home for Sunday dinner and is beginning to treat me as a member of the family."

Hurlock

"I just drifted into this situation because I was lonely and Sunday is a lonely day when you are living alone. The trouble is that I am not in love with the daughter, though she is a nice girl and I enjoy being with her. I would never consider marrying her nor would I want to feel that my marriage was managed by my mother-in-law, as I am sure it would be if I married her. How can I get myself out of this situation without appearing to be rude or unappreciative of all they have done for me?"—S.L.

A. There are two things you can do to make it clear to this girl and to her mother that you have no intentions of marrying the daughter. Both will require tact and firmness on your part.

In the first place, you must stop accepting so many invitations from the family. Even if it means lonely Sundays for you, that will be better than putting yourself in the position of a potential suitor for the daughter's hand. If you continue to be a member of the family, by your constant presence, you will soon find yourself in a position where you have no alternative than to become a member of the family. Merely be "busy" or "have another engagement" when you are invited to the home for dinners in the future.

The second thing you can do is to make it clear that you have no thoughts of marriage at this time. Blame it on your work or something else, but be sure they understand that you are not in a position to contemplate marriage. This you can make clear to them by tactfully referring to your business ambitions or financial obligations to your family.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Accept Yourself as You Are Says Singer Robert Weede

Robert Weede, who has been a distinguished baritone of opera and concert stage for 20 years, is now star of the over-night smash hit, "The Most Happy Fella." This is his first role in a Broadway musical.

It is interesting to listen in the lobby during intermission to the swooning comments of the women in his audience. Usually it is a tall, handsome guy who stimulates such sentiments as "Isn't he loveable?" "No wonder the girl falls in love with him. How could she resist him?" "Don't you think he is fascinating?" and so forth. This is rather unusual because frankly Mr. Weede is middle-aged, heavy set and bald.

A visit backstage after the final curtain proved most interesting. When asked how he accounts for the romantic feeling he evokes in his audience when he has such a hard time in the play winning the heroine's heart, he shrugged his shoulders and said, "It's the way the part is written. A man like that offers a girl emotional security." Tony (the part he plays) is a warm, loveable man, but the girl in the play has been hurt and it takes him a little while to realize this.

Robert Weede leaned forward and tapped the top of his shiny pate and said, "It is the projection of feeling which dominates a performance, not the adorned or unadorned state of the cranium."

He continued, "Do you know that this is the first time in 20 years I've appeared on-stage without a wig for an opera role or, reluctantly, at the anxious insistence of managers and impresarios, a toupee for concerts? In all that time, so far as I know, I never caused feminine hearts in my audiences to skip a beat. But here in "The Most Happy Fella" I'm at long last bald in a role, and people like you tell me that women in my audiences react romantically."

Mr. Weede feels strongly that folks place far too much emphasis on defects in appearance. He believes in changing what can be changed for the better if it is important to happiness or health, and he said, "I am all in favor of people making the best of themselves, and beauty columns like yours which are concerned with the flowering of the full personality, are valuable, but I think that there are times when the importance of a physical defect is exaggerated, that it is sometimes a good thing to accept yourself as you are and go on from there."

"This play has convinced me of it!" He continued, "As Shakespeare says, 'All the world's a stage and all the people are merely players,' but it is the projection of feeling, sincerity, warmth, interest, all such characteristics, which dominates our performance as human beings in real life situations, not the fact that we have this right or that wrong with our appearance."

Diary

Hello Folks!

And now we know. If everything goes right, we will stop thinking about swimming and talking about swimming and start doing something about swimming this Friday.

For myself, it is a wonderful relief to have a swimming date to think about, even though the weather may wash it out and make us wait another little while.

I guess I am just like any other athlete in that there comes a time when you want to do something more than practise; you want to get out and get at the actual game. Coach Gus has brought my training program along beautifully and I feel in good shape and, above all, anxious to give the Strait a try.

If we run into trouble on Friday while we are swimming, we won't waste ourselves to satisfy our pride. We will come out and try it again. We can be persistent and stubborn and we're not going to let the Strait scare us into making mistakes.

I will really have a couple of things to throw at the Strait, if it wants to get nasty.

I have a package of 250 four-leaf clovers that were presented to me by Tommy Barker, who grows them. There are even some 19s, six and seven-leaf clovers.

I was exceptionally happy to receive the gift because when I left Toronto, I was unable to find the four-leaf clover that I carried with me on my swims in Lake Ontario and the English Channel.

As another omen of good luck, Gus has been finding money—nickels and dimes on the sidewalk. He claims this is a sign of good things to come. I hope he's right.

Another thing I will have, which will be worth more than good luck charms, is a thought that Mrs. Ellice Cavin, the kindly wife of my navigator, left with me the first time I met her.

Mrs. Cavin told me, "I will be praying for you just as hard as Ellice will be working for you."

I don't think the Strait has any ammunition like that.

U.S. Asks Showdown

MOSCOW (UP)—U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen asked Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin point blank today where Russia stands in the Suez crisis.

The U.S. embassy did not disclose the details of Bohlen's questions nor the reply from Bulganin, but American sources said Bohlen asked Bulganin for "clarification" of Russia's stand on the issue of internationalizing the Suez Canal and whether Russia would attend next week's world conference in London.

Boy Driver Charged

TORONTO (CP)—Police investigating a traffic accident found the car involved was registered in the name of its 14-year-old owner.

The boy was charged Monday night with careless driving—under the Juvenile Delinquency Act, a rarely used section of the Criminal Code, in connection with the accident.

Ontario law sets an age minimum of 15 for drivers. Officials say they are trying to find out how the boy got a licence.

QUEBEC—A wave of "stupidity and immorality" swept Quebec province during the June 20 provincial election campaign, two Laval University professors said in a study published today.

The report of the two clergymen named no political parties but was a sweeping condemnation of election campaign methods.

They said the reason they prepared the paper is that it is "urgent" in Quebec province to start a program of moral and civic education among Roman Catholic residents.

"Work must get under way before demagogues and fascist apprentices bestialize the masses to a point where any improvement will become impossible," the paper said.

They added that parish priests—who wield wide influence in their areas—took active part in the recent campaign. In one case a cure advised his parishioners to vote for the party in power.

"If you don't, we'll get nothing," he is quoted as having said referring to the provincial government grants.

The exact nature of the document was not immediately known although it was reported to have been circulated among members of the Quebec Roman Catholic clergy. It was not believed to have the status of an official Quebec church document.

NAMES WITHHELD
The names of the authors were not published, presumably at their request.

A sweeping condemnation of Quebec electoral campaign methods is contained in the study which accuses politicians of:

1. Waving the scarecrow of Communism in the recent campaign.
2. Buying votes, corrupting election officers and using violence.
3. Raising the method of using myths and lies into an electoral system.

"Those who now employ or tolerate such proceedings were not their inventors," said the authors. "We must admit that our Catholic province has been familiar for some time with what are called election frauds. They are the monopoly of no one party."

The two Roman Catholic priests, well-known in university and social work circles, wrote in the 4,000-word paper that each Quebec election has become "an occasion to kill the democratic spirit."

SPAN COLLAPSE

FRASER CANYON

YALE, B.C. (CP)—The Fraser Canyon was closed indefinitely to road traffic today, RCMP announced, after the collapse of a bridge five miles north of here.

Police said the wooden structure collapsed with a roar moments after a loaded truck passed over it. The structure dropped more than 100 feet into Sawmill Creek.

Deputy Highways Minister Evan Jones said here that engineers were being flown to Yale this morning to deal with the collapsed bridge on the Trans-Canada Highway.

"I hope to get a report from them soon," he said.

POISED FOR STRAIT CHALLENGE

Suez
Hopes
DimmingOil Shares
Skid at London

(UP, AP, Reuters Dispatches)
LONDON—Hopes for next week's Suez conference dimmed today as Britain prepared "the biggest airlift since the Berlin blockade" to fly crack troops to the Middle East.

The Suez crisis sent oil shares skidding $420,000,000 within a few minutes of the opening of the London stock exchange today. At New York Monday some oil issues dropped $14, but most regained ground today.

Cairo reported Egyptian naval officers have been recalled from Communist training centres to man Soviet-made submarines and warships.

An Egyptian close to President Nasser says Egypt may take the Suez Canal case to the United Nations Security Council before the 24-power conference in London Aug. 16 to internationalize the vital waterways—even though Britain earlier ruled out the UN as a forum for the dispute.

If Nasser attends the London parley—his decision still is secret—he probably will demand discussion of the U.S.-controlled Panama Canal and other international waterways. In this, according to Cairo informants, he may have Russian support.

Other major developments:

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Dulles voiced fears Britain and France may use military force unless Egypt adopts a more conciliatory attitude.

CAIRO—Nasser announced he would hold a "press conference of international importance" next Sunday.

LONDON—Only 10 nations have formally accepted the invitation to the Suez conference.

Marilyn, Ben Could
Meet in Mid-Strait

Marilyn Bell and Ben Laughren may pass each other going in opposite directions Friday in their respective attempts to swim the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Miss Bell plans to leave from Horseshoe Bay on the Victoria side of the strait at 5:45 a.m. in her first attempt.

Ove Witt, Laughren's manager-trainer, said this morning that he may take Laughren over to Port Angeles tonight or Wednesday to try a swim from the American side later this week.

Both Laughren and 26-year-old Billie Benedict were forced to call off swim plans early this morning because of high winds that sprang up Monday night.

Miss Benedict, who had planned to swim at 4 this morning, cancelled her plans indefinitely.

Witt said today: "We have done quite a bit of thinking but, as yet, we do not have a definite plan. We hope to swim from this side if we get a break in the weather Wednesday morning, but if we don't we'll head for Port Angeles and try it from there Thursday or Friday morning."

The dead were identified as Floyd Roseberry, 34, and Ray Miller, 39.

HONG KONG (AP)—Reports from Red China said Tuesday that typhoon Wanda was one of the century's worst, killing more than 2,100 persons and leaving millions homeless on the Chinese mainland.

CAIRO—Nasser announced he would hold a "press conference of international importance" next Sunday.

Strait Swim Attempt
North to South

By DENNY BOYD

Marilyn Bell, Canada's "swimming sweetheart," will begin her effort to conquer Juan de Fuca Strait at 5:45 a.m. Friday.

She will start from Horseshoe Bay on the Beacon Hill waterfront, if weather permits.

The surprise announcement that she will make the attempt two weeks earlier than first planned came from her training camp at Old Charming Inn this morning.

It also firmed up the decision to make the swim from Victoria to Port Angeles, instead of in the other direction in which Bert Thomas last year became the only person so far to defeat the Strait.

The two factors were settled after Capt. Ellice Cavin of Island Tug & Barge Co., her navigator, had watched Marilyn perform in the water and made a close study of the tidal pattern of the next two weeks.

The Friday morning start is one of a series of "target times," worked out by Capt. Cavin.

However, should Friday prove unfavorable, either because of adverse weather or unforeseen tidal complications, the swim will be postponed for a 24-hour period to catch the next desired tide. The starting time will be altered each day to conform with changing tide conditions.

Capt. Cavin's schedule also provides for the possibility that Marilyn may have to abandon her swim because of sudden winds or tide rips. In such a case, the same plan of 24-hour rescheduling will be followed.

Marilyn, who has conquered both Lake Ontario and the English Channel, will be swimming for a guaranteed $20,000 put up by the Toronto Telegram, The Victoria Daily Times and associated interests.

The purse will be boosted to $30,000 for a successful swim. Preliminary plans had called for a late-August or early-September effort.

However, the plans were changed as a result of Marilyn's quick adaptation to the low temperatures of local waters and the recognition by Capt. Cavin of her speed in the water under the difficult conditions that the now-famous 18.3 mile strait can produce to thwart a swimmer.

Coach Gus Ryder says she is at the peak of physical condition and he feels further that her "desire" is necessary in a gruelling swim in icy waters, is perfectly honed.

Actually, it took only one two-hour session of watching Marilyn in the water to prompt Capt. Cavin to an earlier-than-expected start.

Capt. Cavin had thought earlier the Toronto swimmer would be unwise to attempt the strait until the last week in August, when winds can be expected to abate slightly.

However, the navigator accompanied Marilyn on a two-hour swim in open water from Horseshoe Bay Saturday and found, to his expressed amazement, that the 130-pound girl had travelled five miles out from Horseshoe Bay in two hours with a two-mile easterly drift on the end of the flood tide.

After the workout, Capt. Cavin consulted his tide charts again in a new frame of thinking and recommended to Ryder that a start be made Friday morning.

The veteran tugboat skipper hopes to get Marilyn near the centre of the strait in a period of slack water and then to swim her into Ediz Hook on an ebb tide.

Asked about the predicted time of the swim, Capt. Cavin said "Ten to 12 hours. I hope for a little better than 10, if we get the breaks. And she deserves them."

"Winds are apt to be bad at this time of year," he said.

If Marilyn is able to go on Friday her effort will be two years plus one day since Florence Chadwick, under Bacopa-Times sponsorship, started the modern Strait swimming campaign.

Provincial police took over the search for the slayers.

"There are few details yet," Chief Tasse said. "But we discovered a number of cars which had been tampered with near where we believe the captain was shot." Ste. Agathe is about 60 miles northwest of Montreal.

A provincial police medical officer left for the scene to conduct an autopsy.

Road blocks were thrown up by provincial police in the area which is swarming with tourists at this time of year. Ste. Agathe is a popular ski resort in the winter.

Cloutier was first quoted as saying he saw two men prowling around autos but later reported he was definite about only one. He said Chalifoux was "met by at least six shots."

Chalifoux died in hospital after managing to drive his radio car back to headquarters. Then he slumped down in the front seat.

Moving Performance

Members of a Canadian Legion branch have designed and built a portable outdoor stage and donated it to a Veterans' hospital. Mounted on a trailer, it can be assembled in a few minutes into a 20' x 27' stage and moved to any part of the hospital grounds.

Light, easy-to-handle aluminum was the Legion members' obvious choice of material. And in case of sudden thunderstorms, it would be a simple matter to roll the performers, stage and all, under the nearest shelter. A typical example of how aluminum often provides not just one but several advantages on a single job.

"parade" of gifts such as refrigerators and television sets. "There is reason to believe that laymen are not alone in submitting to the influence of money or goods. Donations to welfare, parish or religious associations can sometimes touch the heart of ecclesiastics as well."

The two priests said the situation in Quebec Province has reached an "acute stage" and no "lucid Catholic" can remain "indifferent."

They said that clergymen accustomed to preaching on Sundays against the wearing of shorts in public probably would be shocked by the statements set down.

"But Christian morality, which sets charity, truth and justice as the cornerstones of social life, and finds lies, perversion of human conscience and systematic corruption a cause of scandal, cannot stand unmoved in the face of such an obvious array of facts."

LIES USED

The use of lies on a large scale, through modern publicity mediums, often leads the masses to accept them as truths, they said.

"This method is revealed as a grave danger when Catholics accept it as legitimate."

The document says that "investigators"—not further identified but are presumably members of the clergy—now are analyzing the result of the polls where religious orders are located.

A preliminary survey has shown, the report said, that in many cases members of religious order voted as a block for one party.

"Respect for the electoral system requires that some solution be found to this problem," said the priests.

SOLUTION

"To us the conclusion seems obvious: An electoral period such as the one just completed shows itself a terrible instrument of demoralization and de-

Christianization. What makes a Christian country is not primarily the number of churches, the pious statements of politicians, the apparent temporal and political influence of the church, or 'good relations' between church and state. It is primarily the respect for truth, belief in justice, integrity of conscience, and respect for freedom."

"Present electoral practices are a frontal attack on all these values. The danger is even greater in that much evidence shows that the conscience of the faithful and even that of members of the religious orders no longer finds cause to be shocked by such corruption."

"It is urgent to begin a patient work of moral and civil education of our Catholics," the study report continued. "We are obliged to admit that in this field our English-speaking compatriots provide the example. Moreover, it is our political immorality that shocks them. The work is needed, before demagogues and apprentice-fascists so stupefy the masses that all efforts or reawakening become impossible."

TRAVEL BUREAU PRODUCTION

Cariboo Film Available Soon

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Although the Cariboo country covers an area of 35,000 square miles, you can see the best of it in 28 minutes in a new color film called "Legend of the West" produced for the B.C. government travel bureau.

"The majority of Canadians know little about the Cariboo," deputy trade minister Tom Sturgess told government officials and civil servants attending a preview of the film Monday.

"I am sure this documentary will make the Cariboo better known than ever before and great numbers of people will want to travel there after seeing it."

"Legend of the West" will be available at the end of the month to any responsible organizations, including schools and service clubs.

It deals with almost every phase of life in the Cariboo—ranching, farming, hunting, fishing, prospecting and holiday-making—and concludes with a moving tribute to the pioneers of lonely Barkerville, now a ghost town.

The wide vistas and breath-taking panoramas for which the Cariboo is famous are portrayed with skillful and imaginative photography and the color process used is of a high quality.

After the preview, Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Chetwynd commended director Dick Colby, who with B. H. Atkins also did the camera work. The commentary was written by Harry P. McEever and narrated by Ed Farley.

"Movies like this are invaluable to our tourist trade," commented publicity commissioner George Warren. "We cannot have too many of them."

Dick Colby said he and his colleagues spent six weeks making the film and enjoyed every minute of it.

WHILE SON ON DRUNK CHARGE

'Tough Guy's' Wife Wins Costly Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP) — Mrs. Gladys Robinson, 60, has been awarded an uncontested divorce and an estimated $2 million settlement from actor Edward G. Robinson.

While Mrs. Robinson testified her husband of 29 years wanted a divorce so he could lead his own life, her 23-year-old son pleaded innocent to felony drunk driving in an adjoining courtroom Monday. Mrs. Robinson and the "tough guy" actor separated February, 1955.

Mrs. Robinson and the actor will divide funds from the sale of their art collection which is valued at $2.5 million. She was awarded $3,500 monthly alimony for 11 months and 25 per cent of Robinson's gross income until her death or remarriage.

Young Robinson, Edward Jr., appeared in an adjacent courtroom at practically the same time on the drunk driving charge resulting from a June 21 accident in which his sports car rammed four parked cars. He was freed on $1,000 bail pending trial Oct. 15.

ROCHESTER'S SON JAILED ON NARCOTICS CHARGE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A five-year term in Federal Prison has been imposed on Billy Anderson, 28, son of television and radio comedian Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, for sale and possession of marijuana. Young Anderson admitted in court that he had been convicted previously on a narcotics charge in Kentucky, and because of this the five-year sentence was mandatory. His lawyer said an appeal would be taken.

Rita, Aly, Bettina Triangle Just a Cosy Threesome

LONDON (UP) — Actress Rita Hayworth said today her appearance in public with Aly Khan and French model Bettina Khan did not mean she and the Moslem prince planned a reconciliation. "There is nothing in that," she said of the reconciliation reports. The reports started when Aly, his ex-wife Rita and his rumored future wife, Bettina, journeyed together to Deauville, France, Monday and checked in at the same hotel. Rita flew here Monday night for shots in her new film, "Fire Down Below."
